TWO PLANES ARE READY TO START ACROSS PACIFIC

Third Flyer, Civilian Pilot, May Beat Army and Ex-Naval Officer Aviator to Non-Stop Take-Off.

MAJ. GEN. PATRICK
ARRIVES ON SCENE

Two Prepared to Hop Off
From California to Hawaii and One From Honolulu to America.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 27.—Lieut. Maitland and Lieut. Hegenberger plan to hop off tomorrow morning on a nonstop flight from the Pacific Coast to Hawaii, Assistant Secretary Davison of the War Department was advised late today.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—Tested and ready for flight, two airplanes, in the three-cornered race to fly across the Pacific between here and Hawaii, today awaited orders to take-off, while the third remained to be tried out before the departure.

The big three-engine Fokker, in which Lieuts. Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger will make the non-stop flight attempt in behalf of the Army, was prepared for official inspection.

Major-General Mason O. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Corps, arrived here today to give the final word to Lieuts. L. J. Maitland and A. Hegenberger. When asked if he would make the flight, Gen. Patrick replied: "I prefer not to answer that question at this time."

At the Oakland municipal airport where the Army airplane and the monoplane of Ernest Smith are to take off for Honolulu, activity prevailed. Shortly after 10 o'clock the Fokker machine that is to be flown to Honolulu landed on the field. It had left California from the field, on a flight that took it east of Oakland. The fuel tanks were to be filled, oil taken aboard and the compass inspected. It was announced that neither the Army Fokker nor its civilian opponent would take off today.

The possibility that Richard Grace, the Honolulu contender in the three-cornered race between Hawaii and the open Gate, would be able to take off from the island end of the course tomorrow became apparent today when it was learned here that a propeller which he is awaiting is aboard the liner Maui, due in Honolulu tomorrow.

It previously was reported Grace would be delayed until the arrival of a propeller aboard the liner City of Los Angeles, which is not due in the islands until Friday. Grace's plane is being guarded at the Pearl Harbor naval air station, and whose navigator is Eston D. Kroger, lieutenant in the naval reserve, yesterday made test flights with a propeller obtained in the islands. With that equipment the plane was reported to have successfully passed the test.

Civilian Flyer Ready.
Ernest Smith, local civilian flyer, had his plane ready for test flights today after working with a large force of mechanics.

The Oakland municipal airport, where a special 7000-foot runway has been constructed, was ready to accommodate both the Army plane and Smith for their take-offs. Maitland and Hegenberger inspected the runway and pronounced it in splendid condition.

The Weather Bureau promised headwinds for take-offs either here or in the islands today, declaring there would be a fresh E. breeze from Hawaii to the half-way mark, and a stiff Northwest breeze from there to the mainland, with fairly clear weather at this end.

Lieut. Maitland, accompanied by Lieut. Hegenberger, who will be the navigator, flew to Oakland airport yesterday in an Army service plane from Crissy Field. They tried the long runway twice and announced they encountered cross winds which probably would prevent a serious problem. With these winds, it was explained, the Fokker would probably not be able to take off with its weight of 13,500 pounds. This announcement was followed by another that if similar winds prevailed consistently the Army men might go to Mather Field, Sacramento, for the hop-off.

Crowd Defies Police Restraints.
Thousands of automobiles, brought visitors to the Oakland airport. Police reserves were unable to keep the crowds from the runway and Smith's camp where mechanics and their helpers worked feverishly to straighten out details of motorconnections, instrument installation and wing attachments.

Smith's plane has a gasoline capacity of 450 gallons. Lieut. Maitland's plane is designed to carry 1040 gallons. Each expects to be able to travel 2000 miles. The distance to Honolulu is 2400 miles. Walter F. Parkin, inspector for the aeronautical branch of the United States Department of Commerce, appeared at the Smith camp to inspect the civilian monoplane. He said he was particularly interested in the placement of the main engine tanks as these constituted the principal weight and would have to be placed so as to permit a perfect balance.

Experimental Permit Proposed.
Parkin declared prior to his appearance at the camp that if Smith made the flight before the Department of Commerce had approved the plane, he and his backers would be subjected to a $500 fine, and Smith would forfeit his pilot's license.

After a talk with Smith's backers, Parkin said they could apply to the Commerce Department for an experimental license and proceed with the flight immediately if the department approved. This was understood to have been done. Smith's supporters declared that even if the Army plane beat him to the hop-off, Smith and his Los Angeles navigator, Charles H. Carter, could give them a six-hour start and beat them to Hawaii. They announced, however, that if Grace beat them from Honolulu, before Smith was able to take off, the flight from Oakland would be delayed pending the result of the eastward flight.

The $35,000 James D. Dole prize does not figure in any of the plans of those who had planes at the water's edge today. Because they are starting before July 15, the time fixed by the Dole committee, the aviators are not eligible for that prize money.

$500,000 SPENT IN BRINGING DE AUTREMOITS TO JUSTICE

By the Associated Press.
SPOKANE, Wash., June 27.—It cost almost $500,000 to bring the three De Autremont brothers to justice, Charles Riddford, United States Postoffice Inspector who directed the man hunt for four years, estimated today.

Following their confession of the attempted robbery of a Southern Pacific train in the Siskiyou, Ore., tunnel, in which the train was derailed and four men slain, Hugh, Roy and Ray De Autremont were given life sentences in the Oregon penitentiary.

The Federal Government, Southern Pacific Railroad and American Express Co. have paid approximately $500,000 for reward posters and expenses, he stated. Between 2,000,000 and 4,000,000 posters describing the trio were used to saddle the globe.

The reward for the arrest of Hugh, the first to be captured, probably will go to a soldier, at Angel Island, Cal., who recognized Hugh in a circular as the man with whom he had served in the Philippines.

A man at Steubenville, O., recognized the twins, Roy and Ray and told authorities.

DINED WITH HUSBAND'S SLAYER AFTER CONVICTION

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, June 27.—Deputy Sheriff Claude Peters today identified Dorothy Mackaye, film actress, and her chum, Helen Wilkison, as the two women present at a chicken dinner given for Paul Kelly, who is under sentence for the murder of Dorothy Mackaye's husband, Ray Raymond, an actor, during Kelly's temporary release from the county jail Saturday to attend to business.

Mrs. Mackaye's trial on a felony charge, growing out of her husband's death is under way.

MRS. COOLIDGE TAKES HIKE President on Front Porch Anxious By Awaits Her Return.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., June 27.—Mrs. Coolidge returned from a long hike at 2:15 o'clock today to find President Coolidge on the front porch anxiously awaiting her arrival.

The President had returned from the executive offices at Rapid City at 1 o'clock and had awaited lying down the return of Mrs. Coolidge. He spent most of the time on the front porch watching the road.

Mrs. Coolidge has made several short hikes, but this is the first time she has attempted to climb the hills near by. James H. Haley, secret service man, accompanied her.

whether enacted pursuant to charter provisions or not, are likewise void.

"The trouble with the ordinance is that it attempts to prescribe the use that may be made of transfer tickets and thereby invades the province of the Public Service Commission.

"The City of St. Louis is without the power to regulate to any extent, directly or indirectly, the rates of a public utility, or to prescribe regulations or practices which affect such rates."

Smith's supporters declared that even if the Army plane beat him to the hop-off, Smith and his Los Angeles navigator, Charles H. Carter, could give them a six-hour start and beat them to Hawaii. CHIANG DEMANDS THAT UNIONS DISBAND

His Ultimatum to Hankow Nationalist Government Is Now Being Considered.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, June 27.—A wireless dispatch from Hankow says that the radical Nationalist government there is discussing the recent ultimatum of Chiang Kai-shek, the moderate Nationalist leader, who headquarters are at Nanking.

This ultimatum demands at once the disbandment of all labor unions, and dismissal of 20 Russian advisers and certain Chinese communists.

Chang Ties to Conciliate Nanking Nationalists
LONDON, June 27.—Reuters' Pekin correspondent reports that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, who recently was appointed dictator of Northern China, circulated a telegram in which he apparently attempts to conciliate the Nanking Nationalists, who demanded that he declare his adherence to the Nationalist government.

Marshal Chang in his telegram maintains that he was the friend of the great Chinese reformer for many years and that they co-operated militarily in 1922 and 1924.

He adds that he, like the same objects as Sun, but that the radical elements which misrepresent Sun's doctrine and propagate communism are a danger to the Chinese nation and to the peace of the world.

The Marshal concludes by urging all upholders of Sun's principles to oppose bolshevism.

BYRD'S TAKE-OFF AGAIN DELAYED BY STORM OFF COAST

Pressure of Public Interest Causes Commander to Explain Necessity of Awaiting Suitable Weather

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 27.—Once more down found the monoplane America poised on its six-foot inclined perch on Roosevelt Field, L. I., this morning, its altimeter anchored to earth and the prospect of its flight to Paris disappearing into the indefinite future.

"There is a low pressure trough extending from Newfoundland south to the steamer 'Falcon' and the impatience of its flight to Paris disappearing into the indefinite future."

"This is the same storm that passed over Roosevelt Field and caused a postponement of the flight Sunday morning. The low pressure off Newfoundland is of considerable depth and, though we can't say for certain until we have heard from ships at sea, there is very little prospect of a flight tonight."

Flyers Impatient to Start.

So great is the pressure of public interest in the flight of the America and the impatience of the flyers themselves, to start, that Byrd last night made public the formal statement, reiterating his intention to stand upon the advice of United States Weather Bureau officials.

"Since Col. Lindbergh returned to the United States we have been awaiting the word from the United States Weather Bureau that the weather would be o. k. for our transatlantic flight. That word has never been given. Wherever we shall go, and not until then. We can only get that word definitely a few hours prior to our departure. Naturally we are very impatient to go."

So impatient are the four flyers that yesterday morning only the late Dr. San Yat-Sen's principles, the moderate Nationalist leader, who headquarters are at Nanking.

This ultimatum demands at once the disbandment of all labor unions, and dismissal of 20 Russian advisers and certain Chinese communists.

AIRPLANE "RUNS AWAY" WITH WOMAN PASSENGER Crashes Into Automobile—Pilot Falls to Hop Abroad at Galesburg, Ill.

GALESBURG, Ill., June 27.—Mrs. Zelma Turney of Galesburg, passenger in the runaway airplane of Ned Hatch of Lomax, Ill., here Saturday, was the most composed of 1000 Lincoln Park picnicers who were panic-stricken when the plane swooped down upon them.

The pilot twisted the propeller with the spark advanced. He leaped for the cockpit but missed and the plane glided upward. Its wheels caught in a barbed wire fence and it nose dived. The plane, accelerating in speed again, took the air but tumbled in a half circle. Mrs. Max Walski holding an eight months old baby, saw the machine bumping in the direction of her car and got out as the runaway plane smashed into its rear, wrecking this auto and the small touring car of Frank Ernest.

Mrs. Turney said she tried to reach the controls but crouched in the passenger seat when she saw the plane head into the parked cars.

EMBEZZLER OF $13,000 FREED ON $5000 BOND

Case of C. J. Blattner Who Returned All But $1000 of Stolen Funds Called Up in October
Calvin J. Blattner, absconding teller of the First National Bank of Granite City, who returned with $12,618 of the $13,702 he stole from the bank and surrendered, today was released from jail at Edwardsville on $5,000 bond, charged with embezzlement.

He waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the grand jury, which meets in October. Frank Miller, who accompanied Blattner on his flight and is charged with receiving stolen property, obtained release on $2500 bond. Two professional bondsmen acted as sureties.

AUTOS KILL 13 IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 27.—Thirteen persons were killed or fatally injured in automobile accidents in Chicago Sunday, bringing the total death list since Jan. 1 to 452.

It was the largest number of automobile deaths ever recorded in a single day here. Five of the victims were children who were playing in the streets.

heard it with tears of excitement and disappointment in his eyes. Even his alert wife, waiting in the hangar, seemed disappointed. The rain had stopped. The sun had risen. The storm of the night before had passed eastward, to form a new barrier to the flight. At last, Acosta, Noville and Balchen started back for the Garden City Hotel.

The belief they might so later the day seemed to spread. All yesterday automobiles came and went, a thousand being parked about the field at one time. Thousands of men and women, a shifting throng, clung to the rope barrier that was held by the men who fixed it for minutes at a time.

Kinkade inspected the runway again and shook his head dubiously. At last, at 3:30 in the morning, after a final examination of the runway by Kinkade and Whalen, the two decided against a take-off. Whalen, without awakening Byrd, announced on his own responsibility that there would be no flight.

But both Whalen and Kinkade forgot to inform Acosta, Balchen and Gen. O. Noville, the three other flyers who will go by Byrd. They had gone to bed before midnight, content in the belief that their chance to fly was to come at dawn.

KILLS NEIGHBOR IN DISPUTE Over Farm Then Calls Sheriff and Asks to Be Arrested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MOUNT VERNON, Ill., June 27.—Elmer Wehant, a farmer, living west of Nason, late today telephoned Sheriff Hal Smith that he had killed Roy Wicks, a neighboring farmer, and asked the Sheriff to arrest him. A doctor who was called stated that Wicks was dead when he arrived at the Wehant home.

It was reported Wicks was near the home of Wehant, who asked him if he was there yesterday. Wicks denied that he was and further words followed. Wehant started for his home, followed by Wicks. Wehant reported he fired once with a rifle after Wicks threatened him. Wicks, Wehant charged, had paid attention to his wife. Wehant is about 28 years old and has seven children. Wicks is survived by his widow and a child.

SAYS PLANET CAUSED 'FLARES'
Engineer Thinks: Flashes Not From Lost Flyers, but From Venus.

By the Associated Press.
CHICOUTIMI, Quebec, June 27.—The theory that the lights seen at intervals in Northern Quebec for the last two weeks, resulted from the proximity of the planet Venus to the earth and were not signals from the missing French transatlantic aviators, Nungesser and Coli, was expressed by a second time here by R. E. Joron, forestry engineer, who arrived today after spending 15 days in the region. The first intimation that the lights were reflections from Venus at sundown came from a professor of astronomy at McGill University last week.

EIGHT OIL WELLS- WIPE OUT IN $1,000,000 FIRE

Two Workers Injured Following Explosion in Alamos Heights Field, at Long Beach, Cal.

By the Associated Press.
LONG BEACH, Cal., June 27.—Firemen of Long Beach and company employees, reinforced by a part of the Los Angeles fire department, today continued on duty in the Alamos Heights oil field to prevent new outbreaks of a fire which last night burned eight wells and badly damaged the rigs and equipment of several other wells. Damage was said to exceed $1,000,000.

It was feared two oil tanks which ignited early today may boil over and cause flames to spread. Two oil field workers were burned severely in an explosion which started the fire in a new well of the Julian Petroleum Corporation. A gas leak was thought to have caused the explosion. The well burned within ten minutes. Two McCaslin company wells, the Richmond-Bonner No. 1, Klasing No. 1, the Kohnst-Johnson and a George Getty well were included in those burned.

Two wells of the California Eastern Oil Co. were saved, but would be threatened again if the oil tanks boil over.

Although the fire continued early today in an area bounded by Colorado, Elliott, Flint and Wilson streets, firemen thought the blaze could be held to this section if the tanks did not boil over.

LESS MINERS' WINGS TIED UP FLOATED BANK

Ill., Men Idle Since April Facing Pinch Due to $60,000 Shortage Charged to Cashier.

LIKELY TO BE MET BY ASSETS

Sam Lovel Jr., Defaulting Officer, Respected for Kindness and Church Connections.

A staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 27.—To the ill at the mines is bad even if one has savings, what if the bank in which the savings are kept closes suddenly with news that the trustee has defaulted to the possessor of $100,000?

There are Angelo and Tony and they are useful upon every street in this little town. It is a bank, they say. These banks are so much better, they assert. If they only had had the others who had no faith in the bank.

There are canary-yellow coats, under the frowning, disagreeable mine shafts, in drab white on the back street sorrow and despair abide. Miners could not afford to then the days of the bank reopen, and then the remaining cash.

Cashier in Jail.
Lovel in Royalty centers upon him responsible for its ancient misfortune. William Lovel, cashier of the State Bank of Royalty, Ill., in jail at Benton since with a shortage of $70,000 to $100,000.

There was a bustle in Royalty last morning when, last night, the State Bank of Royalty had opened its doors. Miners had been idle since April 3 were living on their savings. All that day the next and the next a crowd gathered before the closed doors.

The story is told of Steve Papadopoulos who had $3400 in the bank, his life savings. He came the closed doors and demanded assistance. Deputy Sheriff Roy and others said to Steve: "The bank is closed."

Steve drew forth his passbook and a flourish and opened the book to the last, where in blue was written his balance. He used to the book and then at the end he demanded assistance. He put his chest. He spluttered.

Native residents of the town, as hard hit as the foreigner, are more articulate concerning Lovel. It is rumored among them that Lovel has defaulted and is remaining in jail because he fears to face those who have lost their money.

There is a story that Lovel had been living too well on his $200 a month salary, and had spent rent money for a new automobile and his white frame house. Hard floors and electric lights, and he to St. Louis to buy furniture. There is a story that Lovel had a small sympathy for Lovel's wife and 12-year-old son—their mother's grief-stricken over her husband's plight.

The only explanation Lovel has made concerning the shortage is that he had investments. He denied to see the corresponding action against the Liberty Hospital Building Association, which leased the building to Dr. Crenshaw. He alleged that under the terms of a 15-year lease, Dr. Crenshaw was to pay 7 per cent annually on $250,000 of capital stock in semi-annual installments.

Trustees of the building association aver they had an agreement with Dr. Crenshaw not to foreclose until the end of each lease year. The current year ends August 15. Counsel for the defendants say 70 per cent of the stockholders have signed a petition opposing the receivership action.

Miss Dora Pritchard, secretary of the Liberty Hospital Association, was the first witness today. She testified briefly that Dr. Crenshaw had failed to pay the rent.

AMERICANS KILLED IN EUROPE

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 27.—Edgar Eiridge, identified as a New York newspaper man, and his wife, Helen, were killed yesterday when their motor car went over an embankment near Sarajevo. The accident is ascribed to a broken steering connection.

Eiridge, who was born at Bloomington, Ill., was on a world tour, and had visited the Orient and the Near East.

$100,000,000 INVOLVED IN AWARD OF DAMAGES

Decision Against Trustees of Telephone Company Orders Their Removal.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Potential damages that probably will exceed $100,000,000 were involved in a decision today by Justice Sides of the District of Columbia Supreme Court in a suit brought against Charles D. Rood and Charles S. Ballard, trustees of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Counsel for Rood and Ballard estimated the amount at $155,000,000, but Justice Sides, expressing the opinion that it was closer to $100,000,000, ordered that a special auditor inquire into the record and recommend damages.

The company was formed to manufacture instruments which could be attached to telephones to record and later repeat messages coming in during the absence of the telephone subscriber. The case involved accusations that the trustees were not ever anxious to market the instrument because of the effect it might have on the American Telephone or Telegraph Co. Justice Sides ruled that the case involved unexplained and inexcusable delays in producing the instruments ordered and repairing those which had been placed on the market.

Hugh P. Reilly, a stockholder in the company brought the suit on March 2, 1920. Today's decision among other things calls for removal of the board of trustees.

SUIT BEGINS FOR RECEIVERSHIP OF DR. CRENSHAW'S HOSPITAL

Three Stockholders Assert He Has Failed to Pay Rental of $35,000 a Year.

A suit for a receivership by three stockholders of the Crenshaw General Hospital, 4509 Washington boulevard, formerly the Liberty Hospital, because of the failure of Dr. John H. Crenshaw, superintendent and lessee, to pay $35,000 a year rental, went to trial today before Circuit Judge Hall.

The petitioning stockholders, Charles Stehle, Herman Deiber and John S. Beckman, brought their action against the Liberty Hospital Building Association, which leased the building to Dr. Crenshaw. He alleged that under the terms of a 15-year lease, Dr. Crenshaw was to pay 7 per cent annually on $250,000 of capital stock in semi-annual installments.

CORONER'S JURY HOLDS DRIVER OF AUTO FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Farmer Alleged to Have Fled After Running Down Widow on Road Near Maryville, Ill.

Laborer Hall, 49 years old, a farmer of Maryville, Ill., was ordered held for the Grand Jury following an inquest yesterday in the death of Mrs. Johanna Menger, 46 years old, a widow, who was fatally injured Saturday night when struck by an automobile driven by Hall.

Mrs. Menger was struck while returning home from a dance with Mrs. Louis Kellogg and John Gibson, also of Maryville. According to testimony at the inquest Hall fled on foot after his machine struck another car and then careened across the road, knocking down Mrs. Menger, fracturing her skull. Hall was arrested at his home several hours later.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY SEWER TAX LAW KNOCKED OUT

Missouri Supreme Court Decides It Is Unconstitutional Because It Applies Only to Local Area.

UPHOLDS RULING OF CIRCUIT COURT

County Court Had Been Enjoined From Awarding Contract in District Formed Under Act.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 27.—Another St. Louis County sewer district law was knocked out today, the second to fall in a year, in a decision by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc declaring unconstitutional the law enabling construction of sewers by special tax bills. The court held the law, passed in 1921, applied only to St. Louis County, and that the Missouri Supreme Court en banc declaring unconstitutional the law enabling construction of sewers by special tax bills. INTERNATIONAL C. OF C. CONVENES IN STOCKHOLM

Head of Swedish Delegates Voices Pleasure That Germans Are Participating.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 27.—The fourth general conference of the International Chamber of Commerce, which is being attended by about 1000 business men from 44 nations, opened today in the presence of King Gustave, the Crown Prince and Princess and Princess Wilhelm.

President K. A. Wallenberg of the Swedish delegation, making an inauguration speech in French, German and English, expressed satisfaction that Germany was participating in the conference.

Addressing the American delegates, which is headed by Owen D. Young, the Swedish delegates said: "We are particularly obliged to the United States for having taken the first step toward forming this alliance between Chambers of Commerce on the basis of ideas which we all consider should lead to the happiness and peace of all nations. We Swedes are especially indebted to you Americans for your great reception and the hospitality you accorded our Crown Prince and his wife on his visit to your country last year."

Responding in behalf of the conference, Sir Alan Anderson emphasized the importance of the Congress and its principal aim, the lowering of trade barriers. He quoted examples which he said showed how barriers lowered the standard of life, hampered trade and fostered national hatred.

WIDOW OF GEORGE L. HASSETT RECEIVES BULK OF HIS ESTATE

Will of Former Lumber Merchant, Filed Today, Makes Bequests to Relatives.

The will of George L. Hassett, former lumber merchant, who died June 18, filed for probate today, bequeathed the bulk of his $200,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Marie Hassett of Hotel Chase. She is appointed executrix and directed by the will to choose Thomas L. Anderson as her attorney.

Mrs. Hassett is given $10,000 direct and a life interest in certain real estate at Moberly, Mo. Other property there was willed to six nieces and nephews of the testator. To a group of relatives $25,000 was bequeathed, and a general law could be passed, with a population classification that would apply to all of them. He ruled the act clearly was contrary to the constitution.

The decision affirms a ruling by Judge McElhinney in St. Louis County Circuit Court, granting an

Public Takes Peek at Polo, And Stays for the Finish

Cyclonic Game Ending in Louisville's Defeat and Fifth St. Louis Victory for Season Thrills Crowd.

Cyclonic polo, in a setting of impressive scenery, wound up the spring season yesterday at the St. Louis Country Club, with the fifth victory out of six games played. The club team defeated the Louisville Country Club, 5 goals to 4. The play was an unbroken spectacle of concentrated ferocity. The outcome hung in the balance until the final tap of the bell. St. Louis made two goals to Louisville's one in the first period, three goals to Louisville's two in the second, and that was all. Louisville held St. Louis scoreless through the last four periods, and scored once in the third. The three fiercely debated periods of the second half passed without a score for either side.

And all this under a cloudless sky, in a scene of natural loveliness, enhanced by a gardener who turned out a landscape with the fineness of a Japanese print. Ardent sunshine was tempered by an unrelenting northeast breeze that made the lofty flag over the clubhouse ripple out stiffly as if on parade.

General Public Interest

Bright but subtle shades in the society crowd under the maples on the terrace of the country club, the colorful line of hundreds in the sun along the opposite side of the field, for Gen. Public was out in numbers. Anyone who had said St. Louis wasn't a polo town could just take a look at that crowd and try to fix up an excuse, for he needed one.

A line to the effect that motorists might park and watch the game from the machines at the south side of the field brought more than the space could accommodate, and they flocked out of the automobiles and up to the sidelines. Automobiles filled not only every bit of space on the south side, but were parked in a double line clear across the east side as well. At one time there were 90 machines in the front line, and there must have been 30 more in the second line on the east side.

In the first rush of the game it became apparent both teams had strengthened their defensive and were tending to the last ditch. Every time a player swung it seemed an opponent was upon him to crook his mallet, and the game partook as much of steel-trap fencing as of audacious horsemanship.

Lightning Attacks Rule

The change of tactics—Saturday's game had been one of long, spectacular runs with both teams playing the ball and depending on lightning attacks.

Injunction restraining the County Court from awarding a contract for a sewer in a district formed under the act, and preventing any further action toward building sewers in the district. The suit was filed by Pierre W. Rose and other taxpayers against the County Court.

The suit to test constitutionality of the 1927 Ralph sewer district law was filed in the Supreme Court early this month and has been submitted to the court for decision. The law was attacked on the ground residents of proposed districts would be subjected to taxation without proper hearing, that the title of the act was defective; that Commissioners appointed by the Circuit Court could issue bonds without approval of the voters in a special election, and that bonds could be issued in excess of the limit of 5 per cent of the assessed valuation, fixed by the Constitution.

A fight on passage of the bill was made in the House of the 1927. The bill was loaded with jobs for lawyers and engineers, and that no limit was placed on fees and salaries that would be paid.

Miss Ellen Murphy, 22 years old, of 3222 Dakota street, was severely burned on both hands at 11 a. m. today when a can of rubber cement exploded at the Gray-Adams Engraving Co., 1324 Washington avenue.

The explosion ignited a chemical substance with which Miss Murphy was working, causing her clothing to catch fire. She was treated at city hospital and taken home. The fire caused damage estimated at $500 to the plant.

opportunity to breathe calmly for ten minutes, but no longer.

For the second half was a memorable struggle. Defense had closed down again, and no man got the ball but to be beset by a fierce swarm of opponents like a pack of hunters worrying a fox. Three full periods without a score, and some of the fightiest polo St. Louis ever saw.

Ponies in Much Better Trim For Yesterday's Game.

The horses were in much better condition yesterday for the second polo game between the Louisville and St. Louis Country Clubs. The Louisville ponies especially were in much better trim, and it was partly for this reason that the teams were even more equally matched in the second game.

Simmons, in the first score for the St. Louis Country Club, made a difficult stroke, a near-side shot over the neck. Hilliard, of the Louisville Country Club, also made a couple of sensational goals, and Capt. Smith, of the Louisville team, was a key man in the Louisville strategy. Wallace made a spectacular long shot in the second period. Primm scored on a rather long back-stroke, and Niedringhaus' score was won by deft and wily stickwork in a hot scramble at the goal.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR J. T. WALKER TO BE TOMORROW

Body of Youth Killed in Airplane Crash to Be Brought to St. Louis in a Special Car.

The body of James Theodore Walker, wealthy young St. Louisan, who was killed in an airplane crash at Pottsville, Pa., Friday, is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis at 1:35 p. m. today in a private car attached to the Pennsylvania train "Spirit of St. Louis."

Accompanying the body of the 21-year-old heir to a fortune of almost $1,000,000 is George Louis Lambert, cousin of Walker, who graduated with him from Princeton last Tuesday and was piloting the airplane which went into a tail-spin and crashed at Pottsville.

Young Lambert, still suffering from shock and minor injuries, insisted on accompanying to St. Louis the body of his cousin and chum. Others in the party are Lambert's parents, Maj. and Mrs. Albert Bond Lambert and Walker's stepfather, Dr. Malvern B. Crompton, of 5391 Waterman avenue.

Funeral services will be held at Dr. Crompton's home at 9 a. m. tomorrow, and Walker will be buried beside the grave of his mother, Mrs. Lily Lambert Walker Crompton, in Bellefontaine. University chums and St. Louis friends of Lambert will be pallbearers. They are: Thomas W. Foster, Stephen Shelton, Richard Simmons, John Hopkins Hayward, Marion L. J. Lambert Jr., D. D. Walker II, Shapleigh Boyd and Donaldson Lambert of St. Louis; Ewing Keith and "Bud" Collins, schoolmates of Princeton; Montgomery Carroll of Quincy, Ill., and B. Dickerson of Springfield, Ill.

Two weeks before his death Young Walker made a will disposing of the estate of which he had just come into possession.

HIGHER PHONE RATES CONTINUE TILL COURT ACTS

Supreme Bench Rejects St. Louis Business Men's Contention That Rate Order Expired July 31, 1926

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 27.—Increased rates on business telephone service in St. Louis will continue in effect until determination by the State Supreme Court of the city's appeal from the Public Service Commission order granting the increase for a test period of 13 months, under a decision today by Supreme Court en banc, denying the contention of eight St. Louis business firms that the rate increase order expired on July 31, 1926.

The Court upheld the contention of the eight firms that two extensions of three months each ordered by the Commission in 1926 were without effect, because the appeal had been taken, but ruled that the original order still was in force.

The effect of the opinion is that the Commission's two extension orders were meaningless because the appeal had suspended its jurisdiction while the case was in the courts, but that the original rate increase order would continue in operation until the Commission did regain jurisdiction by termination of the appeal.

Judge Ernest S. Gantt, author of the opinion, overruled the motion of the business firms for a judgment that the rate order had expired and sustained a motion by the Public Service Commission to quash the writ of certiorari sought by the firms.

Still Pending in Court.

The appeal of the City of St. Louis from a decision of St. Louis Circuit Court, affirming the original rate increase ordered by the Commission, has been argued before the Supreme Court and is pending for a decision. This action involves the merits of the rate increase, which amounted to approximately $900,000 a year on business telephone service of the St. Louis exchange of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The Commission granted the rate increase in June, 1926, after several hearings. The order was effective July 1, 1926, for a test period of 13 months ending July 31, 1927, or until the Commission made a further order modifying or extending the rates. The city took the case to St. Louis Circuit Court, which affirmed the order on Dec. 7, 1926. The city appealed to the Supreme Court.

An audit of the effect of the rates had been ordered by the Commission and it granted two extensions for completion of this work, carrying the rates to Oct. 31, 1926, and Jan. 31, 1927. The city asked a hearing after the second extension. At this hearing, on Nov. 17, 1926, it developed that the city had perfected its appeal and the Commission immediately stopped the hearing, stating it had no jurisdiction while the appeal was pending. The commissioners said they were not aware of the appeal.

Last December the eight firms filed an application in Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari for review of the extension orders. It was contended the original order expired July 31, 1926, and the former rates should have been restored at that time. The petition charged the extensions were void, because of the appeal, and that the telephone company illegally had been collecting $75,000 a month from telephone subscribers, since July 31, 1926.

Extensions Void but Rate Stands.

Judge Gantt held the Commission did not have authority to order the extensions and that they were without force and effect, because of the appeal.

"However, we do not agree that at the end of the 13 months the former rates of the telephone company were restored," he said. "To so hold would prevent further investigation by tests. Of course, should the judgment of the Commission be affirmed the Commission may continue its investigation of the revenue and expenses of the telephone company. The function of the Commission is to determine and fix just and reasonable rates. In so doing reports may be required of the utility for a test period and the commission may reserve jurisdiction to make further orders."

"On the issuance of a writ of review its jurisdiction to make further orders ceases, but this does not mean that the rates fixed by the Commission terminate at the end of the test period," Judge Gantt continued. "If such rates are found to be just and reasonable the Commission is without jurisdiction to arbitrarily limit their existence. They remain the rates until changed by an order lawfully made in this proceeding, or in a new proceeding before the Commission upon changed conditions affecting the same subject."

The eight firms that instituted the proceedings are the Campbell Iron Co., Godfellow Lumber Co., International Shoe Co., Lubette Refining Co., J. R. Marshall Drug Co., Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co., Shapleigh Hardware Co. and Woodward & Tiernan Printing Co.

THE FILE USER'S POINT OF VIEW

How A NICHOLSON Rasp Helps A Horse And His Rider To Win

When this jockey is "slated" to race, the odds are generally on him to win.

When his horse is being re-shod, a NICHOLSON Horse Rasp is always "slated" to cut away the overgrowth of hoof. Also widely used for this purpose on farms.

Like all NICHOLSON Files, the NICHOLSON Horse Rasp is made and tested to give the best file value money can buy.

There is a NICHOLSON File for every filing job. At hardware dealers.

4800 Yards of Cretonne

Excellent Quality Edge-On or Crash Cretonne—Remarkable Values in Special Selling at 39c

A rare opportunity for the home-decorator—Edge-On and Crash Cretonnes in fascinating Summer designs—at a price which offers emphatic savings! Now you can fashion lovely draperies, slip covers and cushions at surprisingly small cost. These colorful Cretonnes are closely woven, durable, and in a variety of patterns that will surely meet with your delighted approval.

Gay floral patterns, bright as a garden in full bloom, in lovely shades of rose, rich blue, sunny gold and yellow, and cool green—striped patterns combined with floral effects—conventional patterns so excellent for slip covers. Some of the backgrounds are natural color, some are dark cool shades and others are bright and summery.

Values That Dare
to Stand Alone

Only a cripple carries a crutch.
Only a failure needs an excuse.
Only a fault requires an apology.

What is true of people is likewise true of advertised values. A value that can stand on its own feet has no need of the crutch of "comparative price" to put it over. Merchandise that is not ashamed, needs no excuse for being offered—no apology that it is "really worth more."

It is our aim to offer values which will stand up of themselves—without the crutch of the "worth more" claim; values that speak out boldly and unabashed, without excuse or apology. Hence—

YOUTH FOUND ON SIDEWALK STABBED

Companion Says Negro Attacked Him in Quarrel Over Payment for Whisky.

Charles Preston, 18 years old, a recent arrival in St. Louis, who has been staying at a hotel near Fifteenth and Market streets, is in a serious condition at the City Hospital today, as a result of stab wounds in his abdomen and back. He was found on the sidewalk at Fourteenth and Spruce streets last midnight. Robert Burnett of 331 South Fourteenth street, was trying to stanch the flow of blood from Preston's wounds. Preston was taken to the hospital in a patrol wagon.

Burnett said he and Preston were accosted by a Negro who asked if they wanted to buy whisky. They gave the Negro $5. He departed, but returned in a few moments saying he would need more money. The youths asked him to give him more and asked him to give back the $5. Burnett said the Negro struck him, knocking him senseless and when he recovered consciousness he saw Preston lying on the sidewalk stabbed.

Stabbed by Negro Woman Who Had Robbed Him of $80.

John Kollitsch of 5337 Gilmore avenue was stabbed in the abdomen by a Negro woman who attempted to rob him last night, as he walked in the 2300 block of Chestnut street. He is at City Hospital, where his condition was found to be critical.

Kollitsch said the woman spoke to him as he passed her and as he turned around and asked what she wanted, she ran her hand into his trousers pocket, taking about $80. Seizing her hand, he was about to take the money from her when she stabbed him. July 1, 1937.

Police arrested 25 women of the district, one of whom, taken to the hospital, was identified by Kollitsch as his assailant. She is being held, pending the outcome of Kollitsch's wounds.

BALDWIN GRANTED NEW TRIAL BY SUPREME COURT

Assistant Circuit Attorney's "Unfair Tactics" in Prosecuting St. Louisan for Robbery, Attacked.

'WENT TOO FAR IN ATTACKING ALIBI'

Case Was Before Tribunal Four Times and Sidener Has Announced He Will Enter Nolle Prose.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 27.—Sylvester Baldwin of St. Louis, whose appeal from his conviction of highway robbery and five-year prison sentence had been submitted to the State Supreme Court four times, today gained a new trial through a decision of court en banc, reversing and remanding the case because of prejudicial error by the trial court in admission of evidence. All the judges concurred except Judge Walker, who dissented.

However, he likely never will go to trial again on the robbery charge. Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener of St. Louis wrote a letter to the court in 1924 stating he had been convinced Baldwin was not guilty, after a review of the case and seeing alibi affidavits obtained by Baldwin's attorney, Jones H. Parker of St. Louis. Sidener said he would nolle prosequere the case if it was reversed.

Four Opinions Written on Case. Sidener wrote this letter about the time his former assistant, Parker, a Republican politician and member of the lower House of the Legislature, was attempting to persuade Division No. 2 of the court to grant a rehearing of a decision in December, 1923, affirming the conviction. The time for filing a rehearing motion had expired. The rehearing later was granted by a majority of the division on the court's own motion. The case was affirmed a second time by Division No. 2 in May, 1925. A dissent by Judge D. E. Blair resulted in transfer of the case to the court en banc, where it was argued twice, the judges failing to agree on the first submission in court en banc. Four opinions have been written on the case.

Convicted of $31.50 Holdup. Baldwin was convicted of holding up Roy Smith, a driver for the Mount City West Laundry of St. Louis, Jan. 2, 1924, and robbing him of $31.50. Smith identified Baldwin at the trial. Baldwin presented an alibi. He was tried before Circuit Judge Falkenhauer.

Judge W. W. Graves, who wrote the opinion handed down today, held the trial court erred in admitting testimony of L. E. Baker, a police photographer, identifying a photograph of Baldwin as one kept in the Bertillon record room at police headquarters and in admitting testimony by Smith concerning his having identified a photograph of Baldwin at police headquarters soon after the robbery, as that of the man who robbed him. The judge assailed Assistant Circuit Attorney Bowcock for "unfair conduct in the trial." "Not only did the counsel for the State persist in introducing the poisonous evidence we have just discussed (that on which the reversal was based), but his whole conduct was unfair," Judge Graves wrote. "This appears in every line of his cross-examination of defendant's five witnesses, and his argument of the case. In the argument he was heard. In the worst possible manner the defense of alibi. Alibi is a legitimate defense, and one recognized by the law."

Attack Called Unreasonable. He declared Bowcock stepped "beyond all reasonable bounds" in an attack on the alibi defense, in which he said "these fellows must hang together. If they don't hang together we will hang them separately." Judge Graves held none of the alibi witnesses had been impeached and there was nothing to justify the attack.

When all is considered this man has not had the fair and impartial trial contemplated by the law," Judge Graves ruled. "Whether he be guilty or innocent, he is entitled to such a trial." In discussing Smith's testimony on identification of the photograph at police headquarters, Judge Graves reviewed a long line of decisions in Missouri and other states, holding that prior statements of a witness who has not been impeached cannot be admitted to corroborate his testimony. They hold that until a witness has been assailed, his testimony cannot be bolstered up by prior consistent statements.

Prejudicial Error. He held that admission of what a witness said out of court, to fortify his testimony, was prejudicial error. "It violates a first principle in the law of evidence to allow a party to be affected, either in his person or his property, by the decision of a court."

9 PERSONS HURT IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS SUNDAY

Two Men Suffer Fractured
Spines—Boy, 5, Run Down When He Chases a Ball—Driver Held.

Two persons suffered fractured spines in automobile accidents in and near St. Louis yesterday.

Albert Crowell, of 5728 Spaulding avenue, was thrown against the top of a machine driven by Sidney Ellis, of 2306 St. Louis avenue, when a rough spot in the street at Clara and Greer avenues was struck. Crowell was taken to the City Hospital, where it was found his spine was fractured. His condition is serious.

A fractured spine was suffered by George McCraig Jr., of 3705 LaSalle street, when a machine in which he was riding overturned on Manchester road near Gray Summit, Mo. His mother, Mrs. Louise McCraig, riding with him, was slightly injured.

McCraig was given first aid treatment at Gray Summit and then brought to the City Hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical. John Hodge, driver of the machine, was slightly injured.

Albert Rolver, 5 years old, of 1541 North Eighteenth street, was seriously injured late yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Vincent Palmisana of 1604 Biddle street, when he ran into Mullaphy street near Eighteenth, after a ball. The boy was taken to City Hospital. His skull is believed to have been fractured and his scalp was lacerated. Palmisana was arrested on charges of careless driving and felonious wounding.

Anton Handl of 3942A South Broadway, lost control of his machine and ran into a trolley pole at Broadway and Kraus street yesterday afternoon. He suffered a fractured right arm and internal injuries and his wife's skull was fractured. With them were riding Mrs. Anna Kraus, 64, of 2834 Missouri avenue, and Mrs. Margaret Rausch of 4467 Grave avenue, who were cut and bruised.

George Stewart of 4200 Gravois avenue, drove his machine into a concrete light standard at Walton avenue and Page boulevard yesterday afternoon. He suffered a fractured skull, and Donald Lay of 4425 Gibson avenue, who was riding with him, was cut and bruised.

William Keeling of 3634 Evans avenue, was cut and bruised last night when he was knocked from the running board of a machine driven by Anthony McVay of 4424 Easton avenue, when McVay's machine collided with an automobile driven by J. A. Haby, a guest at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. on Riverview road.

Head of Dubuque U. Resigns.

DUBUQUE, Ia., June 27.—Karl Frederick Westlake, D.D., has resigned from the presidency of the University of Dubuque because of ill health. It is announced today by the Rev. Harry Burton Boyd, D.D., of Erie, Pa., president of the Board of Directors.

lation of a witness made with-out oath," the judge said.

"The objection, to this evidence, under the case law, was sufficient and there was error, very prejudicial in character committed by the trial court," Judge Graves wrote.

"Guilty or innocent, it makes no difference which, the defendant was entitled to a fair trial under the established rules of law. This he did not get."

Testimony concerning Baldwin's photograph being kept in the Bertillon records was declared reversible error. Judge Graves pointed out that the law fixes the character of photographs kept there, by providing that any person convicted of a felony, whose conviction has not been reversed, may be subjected to the Bertillon identification system.

Baldwin's photographs had no place in the Bertillon records, under the law, unless he had been convicted of a felony and this made the evidence prejudicial. Judge Graves said.

The place where the picture was kept did not tend to prove Baldwin committed the crime and the testimony should have been excluded, he held.

Submitted Affidavits Later.

When Parker was seeking the rehearing for Baldwin he submitted affidavits that were executed two years after the crime at the request of Parker and John J. Hurley, a Republican City committeeman. Three were by policemen, who said they saw Baldwin at another place at the time of the crime. One by Smith, the prosecuting witness, stated he sometimes felt Baldwin was the man, and at other times, "I feel that I may be mistaken."

Parker said Baldwin was an industrious, hard-working young man, who never had been in much trouble. A certified copy of Baldwin's police record later filed with the Supreme Court, showed he had been arrested 69 times in St. Louis, convicted twice on burglary and robbery charges, and fined in police court on six occasions.

Motorist, 70, Killed at Crossing.
By the Associated Press.
LAMAR, Mo., June 27.—John Gustafson, 70 years old, was killed when his automobile was struck by the Sunnyland Limited, Frisco Railway passenger train, at a crossing a mile southwest of here. Gustafson, a farmer, was learning to drive the car.

SWEEPANOLA WINS DASH FOR TWO-YEAR-OLDS

Low Gear, Favorite, Finishes Third—Jockey Armstrong Rides First Three Winners at Fairmount.
By Jack Alexander.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK.
June 27.—Sweepanola, H. Teller Archibald's black colt, ran away from a fleet bunch of two-year-olds in the U. S. Veterans race, five and a half furlong feature of this afternoon's racing program.

About 7000 persons saw the races, including some 200 persons from the U. S. Veterans' hospital at Jefferson Barracks.

Governor Seth was second by a length and Low Gear, the favorite, third.

Governor Seth started off the excitement by tripping on the getaway and nearly turning a somersault but Jockey H. Elston managed to hold his seat and keep in the running.

Cherokee Maid set a fast pace, closely pursued by Low Gear until Sweepanola, with a burst of strength, passed both just before reaching the three-quarter pole.

Cherokee Maid gave out in the stretch and when Governor Seth pulled alongside the leaders, the three staged a close battle for the honors. Sweepanola had the most left and they finished in the order designated.

Happy Bob Runs Third.

NO-HIT SHUTOUT IS PITCHED BY MUNS LEAGUE

FANS SEVEN, WALKS FOUR IN 7 INNINGS

Haney of McElroy-Sloan in Junior Neighborhood Circuit Is Star Performer—Other Games Ordinary, With Few Exceptions.

For the second straight week the Municipal baseball spotlight was taken by the Junior Neighborhood League when it turned in a no-hit, no-run game yesterday.

Haney of the McElroy-Sloan team, league leader, achieved the whitewash over the Purple Martins, 7 to 0, in seven innings. Haney struck out seven men and walked only four.

The "Y" Juniors held on to their tie for first place when Tarry pitched a three-hit game and beat the Case Stars, 18 to 2. In the other league game the Neighborhood Juniors lost to the Ravens, 13 to 12.

In most of the leagues the scores were topheavy and the play below the average.

The city champion Panta team won its ninth consecutive victory in the Empire League by beating the Bella, 19 to 0. There were two 3-hit contests in the City League. Hoies of the West Florissant, turning the trick against the S. G. Adams and Stricker of the Hartmanns, doing the same against the Woltmans.

In the Central Township League, St. Louis County, Dacus of the Hub Juniors pitched a 1-hit contest against the Welltons, winning 20 to 0.

Five Per-Cent Assessment May Prevent European Football Teams From Touring America

New Rule Requiring State Association's Consent Also a Bar Spain, Scotland, Poland and Budapest Had Contemplated Sending Soccer Teams to America.

Representative soccer teams of four European nations have opened negotiations to tour the United States within the next few years, but it is probable that if any such tours are undertaken they will be under the direction of the United States Football Association and not under the supervision of an individual or group.

Action taken at the annual U. S. F. A. meeting here last Saturday placed severe restrictions upon the activities of sponsors of such tours.

Nat Agar, the Brooklyn promoter who had charge of the recent Uruguay team on its tour of America, expressed the opinion that no promoter will care to undertake an extensive tour under the present conditions, one of which is a 5 per cent tax of the gross receipts of every game played.

Here are the two restrictions placed upon touring teams:—A levy of 5 per cent of the gross gate of which one-half is to go to the state association in whose territory the game is played, and one-half to the United States Football Association treasury.

The permission of a state association must be obtained for the playing of any exhibition game within the state association's territory.

In the past, there was no tax levied on the gate and there was no rule requiring the promoter to obtain the permission of a state association before scheduling a game.

Chicago Clubs Suffered.

Thus, in Chicago, games were scheduled between touring teams and Chicago clubs on five Sundays in a row. That resulted in a virtual abandonment of all Chicago league and cup games for a month and a half at the very

RIGHT EYE BADLY CUT IN WORKOUT

Injury May Jeopardize American's Chances in Middleweight Championship Bout in England, Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 27.—Mickey Walker, the American title holder, received a serious cut over the eye in his final hard workout yesterday in preparation for his bout Thursday night with Tommy Milligan for the middleweight championship.

The American champion had been complaining about the small attendance at his training quarters and the presence of several hundred spectators inspired Walker to give them a run for their money and show his fitness. Taking on George West, a rugged English middleweight, Walker started earnestly in the first round, retreating energetically and for two and one-half minutes the spectators were privileged to witness a better exhibition of fighting than high-priced bouts have furnished.

West Dutt Walker.

Near the end of the round the two were engaged in a furious battle. Walker, West accidentally butted Walker, knocking the cut over the right eye. The cut is said to be a serious one and, in the opinion of some, may jeopardize Walker's chances in the coming bout.

West is said to have harbored the idea and to have expressed himself freely that he could whip Walker. He volunteered his services as a sparring partner when Walker, Jack Kovacs manager, and Ted Hayes, trainer, of Walker, objected to West as a sparring partner. West, who had heard of Walker's boasts, overruled them and said "let him come on."

Walker won the middleweight championship in a Chicago ring, gaining a questionable decision over Tiger Flowers. Previously, Walker had lost the title to Paul Petta. At the time of that loss, Walker was in the hands of a doctor. He was then taken to the hospital, where he was treated for a week. He then returned to the ring and fought a return bout in case he was defeated. This, however, has never been done.

"Packers Plan Perfect Pickle."
P ICKLE packers planned a perfect pickle.
A perfect pickle pickle packers
planned;
If pickle packers planned a perfect pickle,

Some like to "hear" the home team win;
But our idea of outdoor sport is listening in on the weather report.

JUST LIKE HER:
M ARY had a little hen;
But she was very queer;
She laid like fun when eggs were cheap.
And stopped when they were
dear.

Mlle. Lenglen Plans Pro Net Title Tourney

Suzanne, in England for Tour, Says She Will Take First Steps in Few Days.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 27.—There will be no tennis gossip at Wimbledon today, for Suzanne Lenglen being into England last night on a cross-channel sea-sick, she said, after a rough steamer crossing from France, but nevertheless she appeared to be the same invincible Suzanne who used to thrill the Wimbledon galleries season after season.

Suzanne arrived with all her retinue—Mme. Lenglen, her French manager; Baldwin Baldwin, her American manager, and C. C. Cochran, her English impresario for her forthcoming tour here.

"I plan to organize a professional tennis championship for next year," said Suzanne, "and shall take the first steps within a few days."

Wimbledon talk seemed to bore her. "If I could see the men's final between Tilden and Lacoste or Cochet I would like it," she remarked, "but women's matches never thrilled me. I should not trouble to see them."

The French star's English tour will begin July 5.

Miss Betty Nuthall Receives Offer to Turn Pro.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 27.—Miss Betty Nuthall, 16-year-old English schoolgirl, whose play has been one of the features of the Wimbledon tournament, has received an offer of approximately $50,000 to turn professional. It was reported today. There is no likelihood, however, of the offer being accepted.

Miss Nuthall has accepted an invitation to join the team of British women tennis players that will travel to America to play for the Wimbledon cup this summer.

ST. LOUIS STARS WIN A SHUTOUT VICTORY OVER BIRMINGHAM, 4-0

The St. Louis Stars of the Negro National baseball league made it 11 straight victories when they defeated the Birmingham Black Barons in yesterday's game at the Star's park, 4 to 0.

Trent did some brilliant hurling when he allowed the visitors but four scattered hits. Redus led the batting attack, getting three hits in four trips to the plate.

TEN PERSONS IN PARKED AUTOS ROBBED

Three Holdups Occur in Forest Park—Man Held Up While Seated on Porch.

Three men in a large automobile Saturday night and early yesterday morning held up five couples seated in parked automobiles. Three of the holdups were in Forest Park.

The first was at 11 p. m. when the robbers drew alongside an automobile parked near Jefferson Memorial and occupied by George Beyer of 5227 Magnolia avenue, and Miss Carol Hale, of 5216 Terry avenue. Two of the women, with drawn revolvers, stepped out and took $7 in cash, a ring valued at $45, and a pin worth $25 from Beyer and a ring valued at $35 from Miss Hale.

The robbers were next heard from shortly after midnight when Martin Dilschuff, 23, of 3249 Ceyler avenue, and Miss Clara Stoerner, 5125 Lindell boulevard, were robbed of $5 and a bar pin while parked on Wells Drive near McKinley Drive.

Fifteen minutes later Dr. Stanford Arnold, of 4032 Flora place, and his wife, were held up on Wells Drive and $55 was stolen from the doctor.

Walter Bauman, of 4772A St. Louis avenue, and Elizabeth Scanlon, of 4856 St. Louis avenue, were held up by the same men while seated in Bauman's automobile in front of Miss Scanlon's home at 1243 S. M. They took $15 from Bauman.

The robbers completed their night's foray at 1:40 a. m. when Fred Zengerland, of 3321 Oregon avenue, and a woman companion were held up in his parked car at Penrose and Linton avenues. Zengerland was robbed of $14. All the victims gave similar descriptions of the robbers and their machine.

A well-dressed young man armed with a revolver at 1:40 a. m. yesterday held up Neal G. Morris, of 818 Angelica street while he was seated on the porch of the home of Miss Viola Flynn at 3115 Cates avenue and took $15.

Two hours later a man answering the same description held up a party of two couples in an automobile parked in front of 2394 Eighth avenue. Herman Hohnrich, of 5201 Kensington, was robbed of $5. Miss Norma Douglas of the Enright avenue address lost her purse containing $1.04, and Miss Hazel Forest, of 5047 Oriole avenue, a beaded bag. Her fruit, 1218 Chambers street, reported no loss.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN POOL, WITH HIS SKULL FRACTURED

Jagged Hole in Negro's Head Leads Coroner's Jury to Return Homicide Verdict.

The body of a Negro, about 58 years old, thought to be that of John Green, a St. Louis County farm laborer, was found in a pool of water at the American Car and Foundry Co. plant in St. Charles early yesterday, with a jagged hole in the skull which was fractured. A verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury today.

The man's pockets were empty, suggesting the possibility of robbery. The pool in which the body was found is kept for emergency use in case of fire.

Identification of the body was made tentatively by men who have worked with Green, but they were not positive. It is at a St. Charles undertaking establishment.

The man had a gray mustache and wore a dark blue coat and striped trousers.

TEMPORARY WRIT DENIED TO BLOCK DELMAR VIADUCT

At Same Time Federal Judge Refuses to Dismiss Suit Brought by Trainmen.

United States District Judge Davis today refused to issue a temporary injunction in the suit filed by G. A. Powkes, a switchman, to restrain construction of the Delmar viaduct over the Wabash Railroad on the ground that the proposed 15-foot clearance was dangerous to trainmen.

Judge Davis also refused to sustain a motion of dismissal filed by the defendants to Powkes' suit—the city, the Wabash Railroad and the Public Service Commission. The suit is to be tried, probably within the next 60 days on its merits.

Meanwhile, bids for construction of the viaduct to be opened tomorrow, and work will begin unless it is decided to postpone action until after the suit is decided.

STAINED GLASS WINDOW SHOW MAKERS, In Convention Here, Open Exhibit at Hotel Statler.

An exhibit of photographs, drawings and sketches of stained glass windows, dating from the twelfth and thirteenth centuries and including the best American examples, was opened to the public today at Hotel Statler under the auspices of the Stained Glass Association of America.

The association held its annual convention in London last year, when it procured photographs of 55 windows in noted cathedrals of England and France.

Wood Leaves Chicago for East.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Malcolm Leonard Wood, Governor-General of the Philippines, who arrived yesterday following a two-day conference with President Coolidge at the Summer White House, continued his journey East today. Wood said he intends to return to Manila by September.

Youth Killed in Plane Crash

SHEEYVILLE, Ind., June 27.—Edward L. McCallip, 20 years old, was killed instantly and Weldon Worth, 20, was injured seriously, when the airplane which Worth was piloting crashed into a corn field three miles west of here. The plane went into a tail spin at an altitude of about 150 feet.

TWO SUSPECTS SHOT BY RAILWAY POLICEMAN DIE

John Moran and Arthur Long of Madison Were Accused of Breaking Seal of a Boxcar.

John Moran, 33, of Madison, Ill., one of the two men shot by a railroad detective Saturday night when they attempted to break into a freight car in the Madison railroad yards died at noon today in St. Elizabeth's hospital.

His companion, Arthur Long, 39, of 230 Alton avenue, Madison, died of wounds early yesterday. Special Agent Arthur Gulich, in charge of policing the Madison-Venice Terminal yards, reported he had arrested the men after detecting them breaking the seal on a boxcar near the Madison depot at 10:20 p. m. Gulich started with his prisoners toward the Madison Police Station when one of the men, later identified as Moran, knocked him down. Gulich reported.

Fired Three Shots. The second man attacked the officer, who drew his revolver and fired three shots at his assailant. As Long collapsed with wounds in the abdomen, Moran attacked Gulich, he reported, and was shot in the right side and right arm. Gulich then went to a telephone to summon police and on returning found Moran had disappeared. Long, who was unconscious, was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, at Granite City, where he died at 4 a. m. yesterday. Moran was arrested an hour after the shooting in a saloon near the railroad yards.

Long was married and is survived by his widow and three small children. An inquest has been set for next Thursday.

Plans S. and N. America Flight. MADRID, June 27.—The recent successes of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine in their nonstop transatlantic flights from America to Europe, apparently have inspired the Spanish military aviator, Espinosa. He has presented to Premier Primo de Rivera a plan for a nonstop flight from Spain to South America.

Alfonso Attends Sunday Services. By the Associated Press. LONDON, June 27.—King Alfonso of Spain yesterday attended services at St. James' Church. Afterward he had luncheon at Buckingham Palace with King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales. King Alfonso arrived in London Saturday night.

WEAKNESS AND ACHING LEFT HER

Lady Says Her Sides and Back Hurt, and Limbs Were Swollen—Took Cardui to Overcome These Troubles.

Mrs. Sadie Coffey, 502 N. Jackson St., Morrisville, Tenn., says that by taking Cardui she obtained marked improvement in her health more than 20 years ago. She has since taken it when needed, and recommended it to many of her friends.

"I was suffering with spells which affected my sides and the lower part of my body," says Mrs. Coffey. "I got down in bed. I was not easy either sitting down or standing up. My sides and back hurt all the time. I was swollen dreadfully. My hands and feet were twice their normal size. My appetite went away to nothing, and I did not have sufficient strength to do my housework. I could not stay off the bed any length of time."

"One day after we had tried many medicines with no apparent effect, my husband read in the newspaper the story of a woman who had been helped by Cardui. Her symptoms were very much like my own. He said, 'Let's try this.'"

"After a short use of Cardui my condition began to improve. I lost the bloated, swollen feeling. The bad aching disappeared and I began to do a few tasks about the house. Gradually I grew stronger. The weakness left and I felt normal again."

"WILL THIS BE THE YEAR WITHOUT A SUMMER?"

In an article in the Wall Street Magazine of June 4th, under the above caption, Herbert Janvrie Brown says:

"THIS IS THE YEAR OF THE GREAT WEATHER PARADOX!"

This is a cycle year—the second one since 1816, which was known as 'The Year Without a Summer,' when the average temperature in May was 57, with thick ice in some exposed situations; when June's medium temperature was 64, with heavy snow in the northeastern portion of the country, and July's average 68, with heavy ice on the window panes in Pennsylvania, New York and New England.

Mr. Brown predicted in a hearing before the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives, Feb. 6, 1923, that 1927 would witness a recurrence of the adverse conditions of 1816. So far, month by month, since last September, the weather over the larger portion of comparable settled areas of North America has duplicated that from September, 1815, to and including May, 1816, which fact is borne out by the following reports from areas that supply crops for the large canned foods industries in the country:

PEAS
Springfield, N. Y. — "Too much wet, cold weather. Late getting peas sowed, and they are apt to mature in July, which is not conducive to good crop. Acreage reduced from 600 in 1926 to 400 in 1927."

TOMATOES
Preston, Md. — "Cold and bugs bad. Quite a few short on plants."
Southern Indiana — "We will be quite late. Have had considerable rains and farmers have not been able to get soil in shape for planting."
Northwest Ohio — "Weather cold and wet; acreage about 25% short of last year."
Tonasket, Wash. — "Backward Spring and cut worms galore. Set tomatoes three times."

CORN
Springville, N. Y. — "Corn just planted, two weeks late."
Menominee, Mich. — "Continued cold and wet. Very little prospect of canning here this year."
Onalaska, Wis. — "Corn planting has been delayed. Outlook not so good."
Auburn, Neb. — "Had to replant 150 acres, some of it the third time. Just finished planting—two weeks behind last year."

BEANS
Springville, N. Y. — "Stringless beans just planted; two weeks late in doing this."
Menominee, Mich. — "No beans planted. It is getting late and risky to plant canning crops."

PEAS
Beaver Dam, Wis. — "A large yield of peas is out of the question in this locality. The cold, wet weather has had its effect upon the plants. Yield will not exceed 65%."

PEAS
Lancaster, Wis. — "Root rot and blight seem to be raising the devil with all the early plantings and every indication points to about a 50% pack."

PEAS
Markesan, Wis. — "Lots of cold weather and rain have affected peas badly."

PEAS
Ogden, Utah — "Pea acreage in this state about 60% of last year's, and do not think over 50% of crop will mature."

OBREGON STANDS ON CALLES' POLICY TOWARDS CHURCH

Announcing Presidential Candidacy, He Also Asails Wall Street, but Welcomes 'Honest' Investors.

PLATFORM ATTACKS ENEMIES OF MEXICO

Third Entry in Campaign Says He Has Support of Public Opinion and Denounces Use of Force.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, June 27.—"Rome and Wall Street" are held by Gen. Obregon, who has announced his candidacy for President, to be the headquarters of the enemies of the Mexican Government. He makes the charge in a statement outlining his platform.

Obregon, emphasizing the distinction between what he referred to as "honest" American capital and the capital of Wall Street, which he said sought "to promote crime and conflicts in and with Mexico," pledged himself to facilitate investments in Mexico by all honest American capital willing to help in developing the country. He warned, however, that he would not countenance investments by "imperialistic Wall Street capital."

To Follow Calles' Policy. As for the religious question, observers see a clear indication that if Obregon is elected, he will not deviate from the stand of President Calles. It is contended by these observers that Obregon's demand that the clergy absolutely respect the regulations of the Mexican Government is no different from the demand of Calles. While the statement makes no specific reference to the petroleum and land laws, it is generally believed that in announcing he would defend the country's sovereignty and right to enact its own legislation within the limits of international law, General Obregon had them in mind.

Striking Back at South. One of the questions facing the country, the statement says, is a taxation policy to overcome the action of the Southern States of the United States in carrying out what he describes as a boycott of various Mexican fruits and agricultural products.

Obregon says that in becoming a candidate he is complying with the laws of the country, as the Constitution has been amended so as to permit a former president again to hold the office of chief executive after an intervening term.

Referring to this party in his statement, Obregon says that it represents reaction. He adds that the people need not fear another armed revolution as a consequence of his presidential campaign as the other candidates lack the support of public opinion and will not be able to promote any important armed movement. "I," says that he will condemn any of his supporters who engage in violence.

MEXICO CITY, June 27.—
"Home and Wall Street" are held by Gen. Obregon, who has announced his candidacy for President, to be the headquarters of the enemies of the Mexican Government. He makes the charge in a statement outlining his platform.

Obregon, emphasizing the distinction between what he referred to as "honest" American capital and the capital of Wall Street, which he said sought "to promote tural products.

Obregon says that in becoming a candidate he is complying with the laws of the country, as the Constitution has been amended so as to permit a former president to hold the office of chief executive after an intervening term.

Although there has been much talk in recent months of the likelihood that Obregon would be a candidate, the formal announcement that he would enter the campaign created a political stir. There now are three candidates in the field—Obregon, Gen. Francisco Serrano, former Governor of Warrington, and Gen. Arnulfo Gomez, Catholic, who was nominated by the Anti-Re-Electionist party, which is opposed to Obregon.

Referring to this party in his statement, Obregon says that it represents reaction. He adds that the people need not fear another armed revolution as a consequence of his presidential campaign as the other candidates lack the support of public opinion and will not be able to promote any important armed movement. "I," he says, "will be well content with any of his supporters who engage in violence."

CHIEF DELEGATES AT NAVAL CONFERENCE CONFIDENT OF REACHING AGREEMENT

Gibson, Cecil and Saito, in Statements, Point Out Difficulties, Danger in Suspicion, and Progress Made in One Week.

Special Cable to Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Publications Co., (New York World
and Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, June 27.—An appeal to public opinion by the three great naval powers has been issued exclusively through the New York World and the Post-Dispatch, by Hugh S. Gibson, Viscount Cecil and Admiral Saito on behalf of the Naval Arms Conference. They are members of the delegations respectively of the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

They urge the public, the press and the statesmen of the United States, Great Britain and Japan to assist, not hinder the difficult labors of the conference in the interests of humanity and peace.
Decrying jingo activities, charges of insincerity and duplicity, all three reaffirm their determination to accomplish the mission entrusted to them by their peoples. They point out that the difficulties are enormous even without the additional burden of a misinformed public, but they are confident of eventual success.

Gibson's Statement.
All three expressed hopes, exceeding preconference expectations, regarding eventual limitation of navies. The three prepared and signed the following statements:

By Hugh S. Gibson.—"Patience is one of the rarest virtues, but is pre-eminently one needed in conference work, and the American delegation is willing to agree now that there shall be no limitation or restriction of that virtue.

"The amount of work we have all been doing the week long—and this applies equally to the press as well as the Government representatives—has possibly given the impression that it has given me that the conference has been in session for weeks. The fact is we have had barely five days of negotiations and are still at the very beginning of our task.

"It is the start which is always the most difficult, particularly where various methods of proceed-ure are suggested. Here we started with three distinct proposals as the basis of our work. All three have points in common and during the last five days we have been broadening the common ground and directing our work on the three proposals along lines which are confident, will eventually bring us together on a single agreement.

Nearer Basis of Agreement.
"We should remember that at the Washington conference the work was started with three proposals which were accepted in principle almost at the outset. Even then it took weeks of discussion before generally accepted principles could be put into the language of agreement.

"While we have not, of course,
been able to give out specific decisions as yet we are distinctly nearer finding a basis of agreement. After all, if we were in complete agreement as to the methods of naval limitation, it would not be necessary to call a conference.

"We have still the same fundamental questions to solve. The conference will succeed as when it was proposed by the President.
These reasons are the common desires for real limitation of naval armaments and the pressure of wholesome public opinion, which prefers a common sense agreement to the wasteful procedure of competitive naval building."

By Viscount Cecil. The object of the conference now proceeding at Geneva is to reach an agreement between the three Powers concerned as to the nature and extent of naval disarmament. It is not whether there will be a reduction or limitation. That is obvious. If they had not desired it they would not have come to the conference. The charges of Geneva are great, but they could not in themselves have sufficed to bring trusted statesmen from Japan, distinguished naval officers and others from the United States, or even Cabinet Ministers from England.

"These come here with the definite intention to succeed in reaching an agreement and it is not to be supposed that they are failing in their object. The question, instead, is not whether there will be a reduction or limitation, but what is the nature and extent of that agreement.
Here again the purpose of each of the Powers is the same. Subject to certain limiting considerations,
they are anxious to carry the reduction of armaments as far as it can be carried. They make no other reservations on this point. They do not, any of them, desire to continue to pay large sums for unnecessary naval armaments.

"What, then, are the difficulties? There is one which may seem small but in fact is rather important. The question of reduction of armaments is naturally a complex matter. There are many types of ships, many sizes of guns, many sorts of armaments.

"To arrive at reasonable reductions which will be equally applicable to all is a task which is not able to all. I think to lead us in this is an easy program. For months the experts of America,

Japan and England have been considering it. Each group has arrived at its own conclusions and it is in accordance with the fundamental facts of human nature that they should think their particular solutions best, and though the differences are not really so great as some imagine, it may well take a certain time to reach a common accord on every point.

"There is a more serious difficulty, that which is the chief evil of all international relations. I mean international suspicion. It is apparently a most difficult matter for anyone to be a patriot without distrusting foreigners. I believe in every nation it is thought that its own diplomatic representatives are honorable, simple-minded gentlemen of moderate intelligence, while the diplomats of almost every other country are marvels of subtlety, wholly untrammelled by considerations for truth or morality.

"An International Illusion."
"It is a curious illusion. I have had, in the last few years, some opportunity of seeing the representatives of most countries at international gatherings. I have come to the conclusion they are much alike.
Some are clever, some are stupid.
But on the whole all desire to do right. Like other mortals, they might not always succeed in accomplishing their desires.

"When, therefore, in this conference one reads of dark and skilful designs of this or that country to secure for itself advantage over the other two, there are at least ninety-nine chances out of a hundred that the whole story is a figment of the writer's imagination. If we could only clear away international suspicions, almost every international problem would become simple and I would feel great confidence that this conference would result in establishing a really sound, rational system for reduction and limitation of naval armaments.

"That even international suspicion will prevent any agreement, I do not believe, but if it is allowed to run riot in the countries concerned it may well maim the efforts of those who wish to see general disarmament. It is too much to appeal to all men of good will to prevent such a miserable result."

Admiral Saito's Statement.
By Admiral Saito, Viscount Minoro Saito.—"We have been encouraged since we came to Geneva by the businesslike way in which the conference attacked the delicate problems before it. It is clear that the delegates are working hard and are all seeking a solution which everywhere shall bring relief to taxpayers without impairing their security.

"We do not expect that we shall have much to say for many days and weeks yet. Bees do not make honey except in quiet and darkness.
Leave us to our work, and if I may venture a respectful hope, give us
the compliment of your confidence.
In any case your interest and sympathy will be a great help to us.
Place the most favorable construction upon our motives.

"For ourselves we come to the conference without any preconceived ideas as to the way in which the desired limitation of armaments is to be accomplished. We have our own plan, which was prepared as a contribution to the general interchange of thought on a difficult and complicated subject, but we are ready to add to it and recognize fully and freely the value of our colleagues' suggestions and the value of the material before us.

General Principles Accepted.
"The general principles of limitations are accepted by all the delegations. Elimination of facilities for aggression, perpetual safety of trade routes, and world-wide cutting out of wasteful and unproductive expense, are matters upon which all are perfectly agreed from the outset.

"It is only a question as to the best means of effecting these desirable ends. It is a question on which there are many varying opinions.
The conference has shown it is determined to weigh and consider them all without heat or haste, however sultry the weather, but with a sober frankness which is appropriate to the subject.

"If we are all determined to keep before our minds the single sensible aim which is common to all, we cannot fail to extract from the material before us a formula which will give everyone satisfaction, which will give every nation security with economy. This is a true balance of power in the best sense of that much abused term.
"If we can attain it, we shall be better off; if we should fail to do so after last week's experience of the conference and the straightforward aims and intentions of those who are conducting its deliberations, it will certainly surprise me as much as disappoint me.

"On the contrary, our earnest efforts to understand and appreciate each other's viewpoint, a task, I think, to lead us in principles and details to ultimate complete harmony of opinion."

COOLIDGE TO MEET ATLANTIC-PACIFIC ROAD DELEGATION

Pilgrimages, Starting at Yellowstone and Chicago,
Will Merge at Rapid City
July 20.

PRESIDENT AGAIN HEARS BOY PASTOR

After Services Onlookers Surround Him and Mrs.
Coolidge Outside Church
and Take Pictures.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., June 27.—
The summer sojourn of President Coolidge in the Black Hills promises more and more to bring him in touch with great numbers of the people in the North and Middle West.

The visit of several hundred editors a week ago and of 250 South Dakota Legislators Saturday seems to have been only a start, because additional requests for mass receptions have been received at the executive offices in Rapid City.

The President has arranged to meet two pilgrimages, one to leave the Yellowstone area and pick up delegations en route to Rapid City, another to leave Chicago. Both will be at the State Game Lodge July 10. The delegations will comprise members of the Atlantic-Yellowstone-Pacific Highway Association which will hold its annual convention at Hot Springs, S. D., July 26.

Tourists Pass Summer White House Added to these groups, will be the thousands the President will meet on the various trips he has planned.

Situated in a vacation playground, the Summer White House occupants are seen daily by a stream of tourists which has been growing as the season advances. Automobiles, which may pass within a few hundred feet of the game lodge, bear license tags from every state. Some of these tourists get a good glimpse of the President because he likes to sit on the front porch of his summer residence when not fishing or working in Rapid City. A few have been so lucky as to get snap-shots
of him, and particularly of Mrs.
Coolidge who appears occasionally
during the day on the lawn, near the lodge.

Heat Wave Delays Fishing.
Fishing and a hike through the woods was postponed today. President Coolidge until tomorrow when the forecast promises cooler weather. A heat wave which came over the Summer White House area
early Saturday morning and continued today and yesterday, has reduced the thermometer to 85 degrees at 10 o'clock this morning.
The forecast is for cool-weather and perhaps some rain this evening.

The President had planned a hiking trip with Cecil Gideon, his South Dakota guide and E. W.
Stirling, Scout Service man, but decided to postpone it because of his office in Rapid City. Here it has been warm in both day and night
but at the Summer White House up in the hills a blanket still was necessary to keep the night.

Receives Another Invitation.
Mr. Coolidge received today a delegation from White River, S. D., which invited him to attend a celebration called Frontier Days there Aug. 10, 11 or 12. The invitation is similar to the Bellefourche roundup which the President will attend next week, except that at White River several thousand Indians take part in the war paint and feathers to re-stage the war dances of their forebears.

As on all Sundays, Mr. and Mrs.
Coolidge spent a quiet day yesterday. They rested at the game lodge, after attending church at Hermosa, where they heard for the second time the youthful Reil Lum, student pastor deliver a sermon.

Lum spoke a little more slowly and confidently yesterday than Sunday. He reminded "a congregation that Christ had a definite purpose in life, knew what it was and then fulfilled it. He said Christ was "like the Easter Chantry of today who says one thing and does another." He recalled that some believe there was no dissipation among youth today anymore and that such as there was had been reduced to a lack of interest in life and a lack of purpose.

Only in his prayer did Lum refer to the President, asking blessings on him, the Governor of the State and to all his people.

Praise for Preacher.
The President and Mrs. Coolidge gave him warm praise again as he stepped down from the pulpit to accept them to their automobile.
Turning quickly, Lum returned to the church door to shake hands with his flock and again he re-

PHILIPPINE PEASANTS RISE TO IMPROVE ECONOMIC STATUS

Movement Not Against U. S.— Workmen on Plantations Seek Better Wages and Hours.

By the Associated Press.
MANILA, P. I., June 27.—A widespread, genuine peasant movement, nonbolshivist in character, is declared by leaders, exists in the Philippines from the rice provinces of central Luzon northwards of Manila to the sugar provinces of Bisayan, or middle islands, two days' steaming south of Manila.
Two branches of the movement are widely separated and are not united, but both indicate a growing class consciousness.

"The movement is not against the United States, but is an effort by organized peasants to better their economic welfare—to improve in a material sense relations with native employers of the wealthy planter-politico class in the rice provinces. Tenant troubles, marked by many evictions, arose over charges of more than $2 an acre levied by the Government to liquidate the cost of a period of 20 years of building and keeping up new irrigation works. Planters insist that the tenants bear half the expense, but the latter say that is unjust because they don't own the lands which irrigation has improved.

In the sugar provinces it is a question of wages and hours of labor. Native workmen are getting 50 cents for 14 hours of work in the cane fields, which is not a living wage now in the Philippines, and their strikes have been rigorously suppressed, their grievance remains, keeping the question alive.

Return From Six Months' Journey to Australasia.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 27.—The Duke and Duchess of York, returning today from their six months' visit to Australasia, were given an enthusiastic reception when they reached London.

King George and Queen Mary greeted them affectionately at the railway station, whence they drove to Buckingham Palace, and the cheers of vast crowds lining the route despite a drizzle which lasted until about the time the royal couple appeared. After entering the palace, the Duke and Duchess lost no time in having their baby, Prince Elizabeth, who had been left at home, brought to them.

Received the congratulations of the happy membership.
Joins In Hymns.
President and Mrs. Coolidge joined in the hymns, "Love Divine
All Love Excelling." "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Rock of Ages." A school teacher played the piano, a tenor sang and two cow hands passed the collection plate, into which the President dropped a silver dollar.

Upon leaving the church, President and Mrs. Coolidge were surrounded by the on-lookers, including many who had cameras.
They stopped for a moment in response to a request from amateur photographers to permit them to take their picture.

France Laughs at Hoax That Freed Editor Daudet

Royalists and Communists Sink Differences in Mirth While Prison Governor, Deceived
by Phone, Loses His Job.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

Copyright, 1927, by the Press and Publications Co., (New York World
and Post-Dispatch.)

Paris, June 27.—Royalists and Communists have sunk their enimity for a day and joined with all France in an unrestrained roar of laughter at the Government's expense. The cause of the mirth is the hoax by which Leon Daudet, Royalist leader, his lieutenant,
Deleat, and the Communist, Ser-nard, were released Saturday from Santren prison.

The joint celebration of extreme Right and extreme Left was conducted yesterday in the offices of L'Action Francaise, Daudet's paper. Delegates from the Communist organ, L'Humanite, came over to thank the Camelots Du Roi (King's Henchmen) for including Sernard in the fake telephone order, which led to the release of the prisoners.

"Don't mention it, gentlemen, Delighted," complacently replied
the editor, also the general commanding the Camelots. "I am sure you would do the same for one of us."

Champagne Corks Pop.
Hints to the rival factions have not only broken each other's heads, but now the expansive Royalists ordered up champagne and to the popping of corks the King's Henchmen detailed to their delighted guests the details of the hoax. This, it developed, had its origin in M. Daudet's dainty appetite. The restaurant from which he obtained his meals, supplemented by dishes from the hands of his wife, suddenly changed hands. Mme.

Daudet, fearing the change meant also a change of food for her husband, appealed to the Camelots to get her husband out of jail, where he was serving five months for libeling a chauffeur.

The Royalist story is that eleven of the twelve ministers of the interior telephones were put out of commission while the twelfth was used by a conspirator when Gov.
Catory of the prison telephoned to verify the order releasing the three prisoners.

The Government's Two-ors.
But the Government does not accept this theory. Besides dismissing M. Catory on the spot and sending out agents to search for the three "pardoned" men, they have advanced the theory that the man who telephoned the order kept the line open and, when the Governor called to verify the order, the plotter was still on the line.

Daudet and Deleat have disappeared, supposedly to attend a Royalist meeting in Popping. Ser-nard went about his normal business and was seen yesterday at Communist headquarters.
The magistrate, who has been charged with the investigation, had a long talk yesterday afternoon with Maurice Pujo, editor of L'Action Francaise.

STRESEMANN ARRIVES AT OSLO TO GET NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

By the Associated Press.
OSLO, Norway, June 27.—Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany arrived here today from Berlin to receive the Nobel peace prize for 1926, which he shares with Foreign Minister Briand of France.

Dr. Stresemann, who will deliver the Nobel prize oration on Wednesday, was received by Norwegian officials, the German Minister and members of the Nobel Committee.

The German Foreign Minister expressed great pleasure that Germany's foreign policy of the last few years has been so appreciated that the Nobel peace prize was awarded to him.

Political and diplomatic circles in Berlin anticipate a significant speech by the German Foreign Minister and believe he will avail himself of the opportunity to make an impressive plea for international peace and disarmament.

Dr. Stresemann will be the only one of the Locarno statesmen to accept the award personally, both Foreign Secretary Chamberlain of Great Britain and Foreign Minister Briand of France, having delegated their respective Ministers at Oslo to acknowledge the award on their behalf.

FOG LIFTS, EXPLORERS GO ON TO GET NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

By the Associated Press.
LOCKLAND, Mo., June 27.—
With wind and fog which had detailed them over Sunday cleared away by a fresh northwest wind,

ASTOR DROPS 'PEERESS' BILL

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 27.—Viscount Astor informed the House of Lords today obtained leave to withdraw his bill enabling peeresses in their own right to sit in the House of Lords. He gave as his reason the new situation created by the Government's announced intention to reform the House of Lords within the next two years.

JAPAN REPORTED TO FAVOR CAPITAL SHIP DISCUSSION AT ARMS PARLEY

This Attitude Means Reversal of Position Previously Taken by Tokio Delegation
at Naval Conference.

INSISTS ON CRUISER DEBATE FIRST

Americans Inclined to Promise Battleship Tonnage Revision in 1931, Without Definite Pledge.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, June 27.—The Japanese Government, Reuters correspondent at Tokio says, is understood to have sent instructions to Admiral Saito, chief Japanese delegate at the Geneva naval conference, that the Government was willing to consider the British proposal to discuss the question of capital ships, provided this did not interfere with discussion of the question of auxiliary ships, which must be concluded first.

The correspondent understands further that the Japanese naval authorities would welcome the idea of reaching a provisional understanding regarding the age limits of capital ships.

This dispatch indicates a change in the Japanese attitude. Japan last week, supported the United States in opposing the discussion at this time of changes in the Washington treaty limiting capital ship tonnage.

Americans Averse to Definite Commitment on Capital Ships.

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 27
—With British hopes of reaching the Washington treaty decisions weakened by the absence of any fresh instructions permitting the American delegation to discuss the size of capital ships and cruisers, interest centers on what Hugh S. Gibson will do in the way of assuring some future examination of that question.

Essentially the Americans are disposed to put something into the terms of the projected treaty to be framed here that will bind them to a discussion of the sizes of warships at the second Washington conference in 1931,

COTTON MARKET LOWER AT THE START OF WEEK

NEW YORK, June 27.—The cotton market opened steady but a decided move to 2 to 6 points under liquidation and outside demand was inspired by favorable weather reports.

Prices were 17 1/2 to 17 3/4 cents July 1947; 16 1/2 to 16 3/4 cents October 1947; 15 1/2 to 15 3/4 cents December 1947; 14 1/2 to 14 3/4 cents March 1948; 13 1/2 to 13 3/4 cents May 1948.

Some buying and covering steadied the market at the opening, but sentiment was generally bearish, and prices were off 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents by the close. Outside demand declined to 18,500 and liquidation to 14,000 bales.

Saturday's closing figures for the end of the first spot were: May further liquidation 27,000 contracts; January 19,000; for probable balance tomorrow, and that was the result of 17 1/2 to 17 3/4 cents to 14 1/2 to about 13 points net lower.

WEAKNESS DEVELOPS
ON CURB EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, June 27.—Irregularly marked trading on the Curb Exchange today. Some specialties sharply advanced, while declines occurred in many other stocks, but before the close the entire market became extremely weak, early gains being lost and the general list found in the afternoon session.

The activity of speculation, however, continued a wide range. Ford Motor of Canada, which dropped 12 points Saturday, advanced 18 points today. Deere & Co. moved up about 4 points and then yielded when other issues showed pronounced weakness. Buzsack rose over 3 points in the period of strength.

Many of the specialties that had been maintained for some time were also in supply, but only a few generally were established at a lower level.

Curtis Publishing made a further advance of a point, and one of the few strong features. Warner Bros. Pictures sold at a new high of 100, after a decline of 1 to 10 1/2.

Public utilities also were offered on a fairly large scale, but only a few were established at a lower level.

15,000 VIEW LINDBERGH GIFTS

AT JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

People Stand in Line Several Hours to See Exhibit: Police Keep Visitors Moving.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 persons passed through the east wing of Jefferson Memorial between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. yesterday to view the collection of medals, scrolls and presents received by Col. Lindbergh in honor of his New York-to-Paris flight.

Despite the fact that many persons were forced to stand in line for several hours there was no disorder.

A police guard kept the visitors moving, but not sufficiently fast to give all who visited the Memorial a chance to view the exhibit.

When the doors of the building were closed at 5 p. m. there still were several hundred persons in line.

The collection will remain on exhibition until after July 4 and may be seen between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily.

JAPAN REPORTED

TO APPROVE BIG SHIP DISCUSSION

France and Italy were not participating actively in the present conference.

Arrangements were made today to have the French "observer" and the Italian "observer" present at all committee meetings, thus eliminating any possible impression on their part that they are being shut out of the tripartite negotiations. Admiral Hilary P. Jones of the American delegation said today that the experts were striving to reach an agreement as to what type of warship would not be subject to limitation. In his opinion no restriction would be placed on such vessels as river gunboats used in China, and mine sweepers.

Britain's Aim.
Great Britain's aim at the present conference appears to be a larger cruiser strength. Competent observers would not be surprised if a suggestion were forthcoming from the British embodying total tonnage figures considerably in excess of the maximum of 200,000 tons contained in the American project.

In such case, these observers say, the question would present itself to the American delegation whether it really was advisable to sign a pact which, although fixing a maximum would set that limit at such a large figure as to mean nothing but competition in building.

Frequent Press Conferences.
Never before has there been an international conference affecting vital national interests where the press has played such a weighty role, or where there has been such frank recognition of the power of the press.

Last week all three delegations—British, American and Japanese—have been fighting their naval battle virtually in the public prints. The British inaugurated the plan today by holding daily press-conferences with the newspapermen to explain and defend the British project. The Americans and Japanese quickly fell into line, all realizing that in the long run only those concessions can be permitted that have the support of public opinion in the home lands.

U. S. Opposition to Altering Treaty Reiterated.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—The American Government's decision not to alter provisions of the Washington arms conference treaty, with only three powers represented at Geneva, was reiterated here today.

Suggestions emanating from Geneva that a five-power conference to include France and Italy might be called when the present discussions end, so that British proposal for revision of the Washington agreement might be considered, found little support in official circles. Italy and France, it was explained at the State Department, were invited to the present conference and still would be welcome.

Indications that America might be willing to make moderate concessions to the Japanese and British, so long as the 5-5-3 ratio is kept virtually intact, were evident in some quarters. The Japanese hope for a navy of 70 per cent of the strength of the American has thus far met no outspoken opposition here.

The Japanese objection to specifications of the 5-5-3 ratio in that language might be overcome, it is believed, by stipulating tonnage in place of ratio.

Another American concession discussed would be a slight increase in the proposed total tonnage of 200,000 tons for cruisers. Such an increase would be a compromise with the British plan, which while limiting cruisers to 7500 tons, would establish no total tonnage. No great advance beyond 200,000 tons would be acceptable to the United States, it was held, and this country would reserve the right to build its cruisers of any weight within the 10,000-ton maximum already agreed upon.

Envoys Explanation of British Naval Proposal.

NEW YORK, June 27.—An all-around scaling down of power without disturbing the 5-5-3 ratio is the aim of the British proposals, to the Geneva conference on naval disarmament, says a statement issued by Sir Harry G. Armstrong, British Consul-General, on behalf of Sir Edme Howard, British Ambassador. The Consul-General outlined the English suggestions as follows:

Reductions in tonnage of capital ships to 20,000 tons and reduction in the size of guns from 18 inches to 15.5 inches.
Extension of the life of capital ships from 20 to 25 years.
Equal start by all powers on Construction of the new 10,000-ton cruiser.

The Woman of Tomorrow As Mme. Kollontay Visions Her

Romance, Says the Russian Minister to Mexico, Will Not Mean as Much to Her and Marriage Will Be a Practical Partnership — The Flapper Is the Product of Transition.

By ARTHUR CONSTANTINE, MEXICO CITY.

"N O, there will be no flappers—because flappers are drones. It will be a really discreditable thing for a girl to marry someone she cares almost nothing about, just for a home and freedom from jobs, and alimony in case her husband grows tired. There will be no Don Juans and Lord Byrons, for the simple reason that women want to be free. And, by the same token, no soft-hearted maidens who sacrifice all for love and take poison. Every one, both man and woman, will have a job and a career, and love will be a luxury for both. A gorgeous luxury, perhaps, but one to be indulged judiciously, just as wine, intelligent people have always treated luxuries.

Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, Russian Minister to Mexico, the only accredited woman Ambassador in the world, stormy petrel of the Red revolution, was painting for her idea of the world tomorrow. That is, the world that she believes will be—once the philosophy of the "modern women" has become generally accepted by the heretofore weaker sex and made a political force—like votes for women, of cleanliness.

There is no doubt in Madame's mind, for instance, that this will come to pass: That the modern women's ideals will rule the world, and that men—mere men—will be forced to accept these ideas and live with "the new woman." The only alternative for the man, so says the still exceedingly comely Kollontay, will be for him to become a hermit.

The dark, vivid, eager Kollontay, idol of feminists the world over, sat at her desk in the Russian Embassy, now she was concerned only with this world tomorrow—a world about which she has already written one novel, and about which she proposes to write a series.

"You think I go too far," she said suddenly. "Well, look back to your own country, look in every country, and you will see the same change working in women, and you'll have to admit that this change must make men different. The fact is that love and family are no longer a woman's whole existence. Love and romance no longer play the chief role in the modern girl's life as they did in those of her mother, and to even a greater extent of her grandmother.

"Take the girl of yesterday. She was brought up in a sheltered home, let us say, and the sole purpose of her existence was to marry and settle down. So, however much she might have wanted to do the same things that young men do, however much she might dream of work and war as men knew them, she could only settle down and cultivate the sweetness, tenderness and sentiment that would make her attractive to men.

"Suppose then that she married. If children came, that was her life. She truly loved her husband, and for a time he was, probably, very much in love with her. But soon he began to think more and more of his business, his associates in the outside world. His wife was just his wife, he was sure of her, sure she would always be there waiting for him when he got home, sure that she would gratefully accept whatever kisses and tenderness he might, on occasion, design to give her.

"Naturally, there was another picture in the young man's mind scattered throughout your United States were women who called old maids. They were women who never succeeded in catching a husband. And there was nothing on earth for them to do but live out their lives as old maids. You see, they never had learned any practical thing so that they would have gone to work and paid their way in the world. And then, of course, there were other women who never married, and who, having to make their own way, did it in the only way they knew how. They became parasites, using all the tricks of tenderness and love-making that they had been taught as girls to get money from men.

Mme. Kollontay, Russian Minister to Mexico.

husband? Soon she would come to the point where she would have to give up either husband or career; and certainly the modern woman would, I think, hold to her career. A typist, an office girl, a teacher, a policewoman, or a department chief might have the most ardent desire to hurry home to her ill husband or sweetheart, but in the modern code business obligations come first. The modern woman is learning to subdue her emotions to reason, to master her tender feelings and put business and work before sentiment. She is learning to do what men have always done.

"Consider the average man and you'll see just what I mean. Has the average business or professional man time for emotions? Why, men have not even time to fall in love any more. A man generally marries nowadays because he needs a woman in his home, there is no longer such a thing as desperate love or tender, all-consuming passion. Men are completely rational, even in love affairs.

The Cause of Conflicts. "And, curiously enough, this very attitude is, I think, responsible for most marriage conflicts, divorces, separations, desertions. We all live in the world great numbers of women brought up under the old regime—women of the pre-war generations who think love is everything, who are full of sentiment and the hope that marriage may be for them a union of hearts and souls. But such a woman today soon finds that the man she marries regards love-making in the home as something of a bore, and herself as a charming little creature with no intelligence or knowledge. She feels cheated in her love, and the union is a failure.

So the modern, after-war girl takes her burden of love illusions. She keeps her heart shut. She tries to take love as lightly as men do. Very often the love entanglements. But if sometimes she falls deeply in love—and with her heritage this is more likely to happen to her than to a man—and she is disappointed, she does not take poison. Neither does she believe she can never be happy again.

"She just picks herself up, steps over her misfortune and goes on living, struggling, working, supporting herself and finding solace in her career, until, perhaps, she finds some man with whom she is willing to go hand in hand for years. Brave, rational, clear-eyed at last—that is the modern girl, the woman of tomorrow.

Sentiment Not Doomed. "Love and sentiment doomed and romance forced into the discard, by such women? By no means. I think love, sentiment, romance will be on a sounder, more interesting basis tomorrow than is the case today, or was, for that matter, in any other age. Certainly, the woman of tomorrow will be broader, better informed, better able to cope with life than the old-type woman. Certainly she will be more interesting in love; even if she never again gives herself to a man so wholly that, as often happens nowadays, he becomes surprised and bored and anxious to get away.

"And, on the other hand, man will have to learn that now as a woman becomes more and more independent, economically, he cannot buy her and her affections by merely going through a marriage ceremony, paying for her clothes and a home and occasional amusement. No longer, then, can he buy a woman. She will be on the basis of love and continued love and affection, she will have to be loved as a person, not as a possession. She will have to pay her love and loyalty in kind, or lose her. And, since we always want what we cannot have and strive to keep things we fear we are about to lose, marriage will be down her own individuality in the individuality of another, even if that individual is her husband."

What a lot we do expect from women, don't we?

And isn't it especially how many times what we expect turns out to be true?

(Copyright, 1937.)

Sophisticated Frocks.

NEW YORK—Wedding gowns are becoming more sophisticated. Skirts even on bridal costumes are very short but trains are long. These latter hang from the shoulders and instead of being satin and lace, they are of georgette trimmed with long lines of rhinestones from top to hem.

Just Mrs. Somebody-or-Other, an appendage, a "second child," a sheltered, protected woman in a sheltered, protected home—

Love and sentiment, security of it, lovely the comfort and the ease—but after awhile?

Is it possible for any woman in the world to change herself into something else all at once? No man on earth could do it, no man in the world would try to do it, and we wouldn't have much respect for him if he did.

Are women so much more unselfish so much less egotistical than men?

Can a woman who has been the center of her own life so long suddenly begin to revolve around another—just for love?

I hope she can. I wish she could, perhaps this particular one will, but if she does, she's one of the most unusual human beings in the world. She has had to develop her ego carefully with the utmost determination ever since she was a little bit of a girl. Will the ego which has made her what she is permit her to

on a sounder foundation than ever. The thing that has always militated mainly against happy marriage has been just the certainty of the man that this woman was his, come what might; that she could not get away.

A Bargain Between Equals.

"You can see this for yourself. In the old days, and indeed among the passing type of women today, it was the woman who put all her heart's capital into love. The husband was, generally, rather guardedly. He always hoped and expected to get more of affection and comfort than he gave. Society backed him in this hope and expectation. But the society of tomorrow will no longer do that; and if a man wants to keep a woman, he will have to give her the union of finer moral values, appreciation and sympathy than he does now.

"Love and marriage will be a bargain between equals, not between master and slave as it was so often in the beginning, nor between economic dictator and economic dependent, as it has been more recently.

"A curious thing about this change that's now working in the world is that the flapper is a sort of intermediate type. She is halfway between the old-type woman who was utterly dependent on winning a husband, and in that way a living, and the woman of tomorrow. She is a gold digger and lives without work, mostly on what she can get from men.

"But she has somehow gotten hold of the modern woman's view of love. She does not take it so seriously as to let it wreck her life, if it should go wrong. She is not sentimental. She has nothing in her of the tender Mimi Pinson of 'La Boheme' or of Shakespeare's Impassioned Juliet. She realizes that love in this harder day is indeed a luxury. She has only to go to work, to take life seriously, to become, quite probably, the best type of my women of tomorrow."

Garter for Rolled Stockings.

A new garter has been patented which is especially designed for rolled stockings. It has a double row of raised sections that interlock when the garter is adjusted and prevent slipping.

To wear them the garter is put on and the top of the stocking is brought up over the first section of the garter. The remaining exposed part of the garter is then turned over the stocking and the whole is folded over once more. Presto! The stocking is securely in place and will remain so until removed by the wearer.

Bad Teeth and Eye Diseases

By CHAS. A. L. REED, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association

HAVE you bad teeth? Then look out for your eyes. Of course, many other harmful things come from bad teeth, and in a general way I believe the idea is overworked. But there is truth in the statement that a focus of infection in a tooth may lead to many disorders such as heart troubles, rheumatism, neuritis and a lot of other things. Now we are informed by Whitehead (British dental journal) that bad teeth are often the causes of bad eyes.

The eye is a delicate mechanism, very sensitive to infection, either that coming from outside or that borne to it by the blood stream. Few toxins are more dangerous than those generated by a bad mouth, and quite a number of people suffer eye trouble, which may be so severe as to destroy their eyesight, because they have neglected the elements of mouth hygiene.

Inflammation in the colored part of the eye may cause adhesions between the eyelids, or, if the infection is secondary to gonorrhea, a very painful disease which destroys the sight.

Inflammation may attack the lens on the inside of the eye itself and cause a cataract, or floating speck that interferes with vision.

Although some people have terrible mouths and yet have no eye trouble, a single bad tooth is sufficient to cause nearly any of these diseases. Conditions in the mouth which flood the system with poison are inflammation of the gums or other parts of the mouth, ulcers of all kinds, decayed teeth, root abscesses, pyorrhea and a general want of cleanliness.

The balance between good health and bad is very delicate, and most people are not nearly so well as they think.

Very often the removal of one septic tooth will show a person with defective eyes how far from fit he really was before.

A man may have a thoroughly septic mouth and suffer no trouble, either in his eyes or anywhere else, until he catches a cold or some other infection. Then the balance is disturbed and anything may happen. Whitehead quotes a typical case. A doctor of fine standing, wearing glasses, was apparently perfectly healthy and never had anything wrong with his eyes, went out fishing. It was a cold day and he got thoroughly chilled by the wind. Soon afterward he started to suffer from sore, bloodshot eyes and was found to have extensive inflammation of the iris and surrounding parts. His doctor referred him to a dentist, who found an abscess at the root of a molar in his lower jaw. The abscess was promptly removed and the eye was well within a week.

Another patient found that his sight got gradually worse until in six months he could see no more than a few feet. He had several decayed stumps hidden by a gold bridge. Finally his doctor cleared all these teeth out and in a month all his inflammation had gone and his sight returned practically to normal.

These examples of Whitehead's show that many people who suffer from eye trouble can hope for great improvement if they will go to a good dentist. But they also point to the extreme importance of keeping the mouth in good condition. It is not sufficient to wait until a tooth aches, until the sight is disturbed or until the pain starts to become painful. None of these things would happen, as far as the teeth are concerned, if people would make a point of seeing their dentist three or four times a year, or brushing their teeth scrupulously, even once a day, and of eating proper food.

Unclean teeth not only make a filthy mouth but they are dangerous things.

The Diary of a New Father

Former President of the American Medical Association

T HIS afternoon I was sitting there reading the paper and smoking a two-bit cigar that a fellow at the office gave me yesterday on account of him having had such poor judgment about the prize fight Friday night, and the baby was sitting in the middle of the floor looking serious at nothing in particular, and Joan was standing in front of the mirror looking serious at herself, and she was talking her head like saying no kind of sense, and I said, "Are you arguing with yourself? Why don't you pick on me as usual?"

Joan said, "Oh, just look at my hair, and I said, 'All right,' and I looked at it and I said, 'Well, what's the rest of the trick?'"

She said, "I just look at it when it's this way." I said, "Do it up some other way, then. Don't stand there being mad at yourself." She said, "How else can I do it up? It's too long for short hair and I said, 'I'll admit that's an unhappy medium, but why pick this afternoon to worry about it?'"

Joan said, "Well, if I enroll this week for the university extension courses, I'll have to start attending classes looking like an oil mop." I said, "Are you going to school to learn something, or do you intend to spend your time being so beautiful that the boys will begin wearing hats again so they will have a chance to tip them to you?" She said, "I suppose you would like me to go among up-to-date college students wearing goggles around a Mother Hubbard," and I said, "Weren't we talking about hair?"

She said, "Well, just look at it."

I said, "I already have. What's wrong?" and she said, "What's wrong? Why, I've been letting it grow for several weeks, and now it's at that horrible betwixt and between stage." I said, "Don't worry yet. You may not go to school," and she said, "Why not?" and I said, "Well, you know how broke I am. You said yourself that you would have to win that prize contest prize to afford the tuition."

Joan said, "I suppose you think I'm not capable of winning the prize," and I said, "I didn't say so. But if the judges show poor taste and give it to somebody else, why you won't need to worry whether your hair would get a vote of confidence from all the co-ed chasers or not." She said, "Well, I'm going to win it," and it is funny how women can have that much confidence in themselves and still soon to worry about their hair. If they were as good as they think they are, it would not matter if they were bald.

I said, "I already have. What's wrong?" and she said, "What's wrong? Why, I've been letting it grow for several weeks, and now it's at that horrible betwixt and between stage." LAUGHING AROUND
with IRVIN S. COBB

Educating the Young Idea.
T O my way of thinking, this story has absolutely the true and distinctive English flavor. It could have originated nowhere else except in England. I saw it recorded in a British publication. On a quiet by-street in a residential district of London there met one Saturday afternoon an austere, reserved, gentleman, aristocratic bearing and one of his neighbors. The latter was rather on the bolder order—self-made, self-assertive and self-sufficient. He was accompanied by his son, a stub-nosed, stumpy lad of 12 or thereabouts.

"Good day," exclaimed the father effectively, at the same time putting himself squarely in the path so that the other either must halt or run over him.

The aloof pedestrian grunted in a noncommittal way.

However, the self-made man was proof against rebuffs; snubs meant nothing to him. Probably he was used to them.

"Beautiful day, isn't it?" he pressed.

"Another grunt which might mean anything."

"This is my little son," continued the bolder. "I'm taking him to the Zoo."

"Ah, indeed," quoth the gentleman. "I'm sending mine to Eton."

The Gray That Softens.

NEW YORK—Even a hard face is made more attractive by a soft gray hat and scarf. That explains the recent vogue of the gray shades which has been noticeable for some weeks. A hand scarf just imported, and meant to be worn with a white frock trimmed with gray, have two shades of gray mingled with white in their color scheme.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

This Job of Children.

W HAT'S the matter with the family life in the United States today?

The question is soon going to be the subject of a conference.

Called by the American Association for Organizing Family Social Work.

(Yes, that's all of the name, there isn't any more!)

All sorts of solemn sociological experts are scheduled to probe and analyze and dissect the family, to find out what makes its wheels go round.

And what throws a monkey wrench in the machinery.

They'll get their reports by-and-by, and learn a lot—maybe.

Meanwhile, as one amateur.

Who has had 11 years' experience with one ready-made family.

We're here to remark that families get into a jam.

Because the persons who run them are just plain stupid!

For instance, it is asinine.

To let half-grown boys and girls play around in automobiles.

To overdress them.

To give them more money than they need for simple amusements.

To allow them to be snobs.

To tolerate, or even laugh at, laziness and irresponsibility in school work.

It is on the other hand, just as stupid.

To make the lives of children one long preachment and prohibition.

To be shocked over the superficial acts and habits of the moment.

Because they happen to be different from what was said or worn or done when you were in your teens.

To let children drift ahead, without any pleasant program of sports or outdoor life or training for a decent job.

To tell them old platitudes that they know, and you know, are "the bunk."

It seems to us that modern family life can and should strike a happy medium.

Between old-fashioned policing and new-fashioned license.

You can't let children run wild.

But, on the other hand, you can talk to them and ask them for suggestions.

When they begin to slip up at all.

You'd be surprised what sensible suggestions they will offer.

If you ask their co-operation, instead of always thundering from Sinai.

Also, you can get much farther with today's generation.

By appealing to natural sense.

Instead of natural ploy.

They get what they call a "kick" out of moral denunciation.

Or they ascribe the scolding to personal motives.

We know an otherwise charming and sensible girl-child.

Who is convinced that the reason why some of her teachers cast a disapproving eye on short skirts.

Is because "those old ladies are snobs!"

It is on the other hand, you tell boy and girl.

"That was a silly stunt!"

And not only tell em but show em.

You can usually keep them from making the same mistake a second time.

There's another trick that helps with children.

And that's being INTELLIGENT.

Interested in their affairs.

Here, again, you mustn't be stupid.

We've found that if a college education had no other value for a woman.

(As of course it has!)

She can use it to help her daughter with home work.

And to get the child ready for her own college days.

Also, if you're clever about clothes.

The Younger Generation repays a gratifying trust in your taste.

Of course, you must love self-interest.

Not like a whining martyr.

But with a relentless putting-aside of pleasure and plans and friends.

Which childlike couples can afford.

Don't kid yourself—that's the necessary regime for most parents.

But it helps to cement the entente cordiale with the youngsters, as they grow older.

Finally, know how to let go—when children are of age they're not children.

They must make their own living and marriages and mistakes—leave 'em to 'em!

When they tell you—we're lucky enough to have heard the line—"The kids were brought up right!"

TIME WILL TELL.

When Mrs. Joseph C. Cowler, wife of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, that the girl of 1927 prefers babies to business achievements, we disagree. The really up-to-the-minute young woman prefers—and somehow coordinates—both.

HOW CAN IT STOP HERE?

Justice Erlanger, commenting on a recent case, says it isn't nice for a second husband to let his wife's first husband continue to pay her alimony. We agree with the Judge, but we sympathize with the husband. It's a brave man who comes between a woman and her collection!

KOKKE.

All men can put love to one side and live in peace. But women differ.

MEET THE MISSES

Milton Work's Bridge Pointers

THE pointer for today is: Three aces without slight strength is sufficient for a no trump, but sometimes works badly, three aces, with side strength, apt to produce game, is too strong to pass.

Yesterday's hand:

Spades—A-3-4.

Hearts—A.

Diamonds—10-6-2.

Clubs—A-Q-J-8-2.

My answer slip reads:

No. 17. South (Dealer) should bid one no trump.

No. 18. South one spade; west should bid two clubs.

No. 19. South one heart; west pass; north should bid one no trump.

No. 20. After three paces; east should bid one club.

My reasons in support of these declarations are:

No. 17. A close choice between one club and one no trump, but from a love score this hand needs little assistance to produce game at no trump, and considerable assistance to produce game at clubs. The defenseless suit contains three cards and therefore is not a serious menace. While a bid of one club would not be criticised, it is the type of hand with which bold bidding is apt to be rewarded; and one no trump is preferred.

No. 18. After an adverse space, a no trump seems dangerous. It is rarely wise to bid no trump over an adverse suit when holding but one stopper in that suit, unless the partner has previously bid. With but a single heart, a double cannot be considered and therefore two clubs seems the sound declaration.

No. 19. Partner having bid a major of which the hand contains but a singleton, a take-out is advisable, even considering the fact that the singleton is the ace of partner's suit. To take out with two clubs would deny no trump assistance outside of the club suit. The partner's bid shows side strength, and the no trump is therefore the sound declaration.

No. 20. Once again we have a choice between a no trump and a club, but after a pass by partner, the club seems to be sounder and is therefore given the preference.

They Melt in Your Mouth

A Gentleman

By LUCY LOWELL

WORDS shift their fine shades of meaning as life changes. Languages die. Greek is gone with the glory of an ancient day and Latin is a dead thing. Even certain words of our own tongue, common and useful enough a few years ago, seem to have lost their quality.

Sometimes this is the case because the words have been used carelessly or in association which meant something disagreeable.

A puzzled mother writes me that she can elicit nothing but scorn from her young son when she tries to teach him to be a gentleman.

He has acquired the idea somewhere, probably from some of his schoolmates, that the word "gentleman" is another way of saying "mollycoddle," she explains.

The gentle man explains. It is a good boy, naturally gentlemanly and courteous, she goes on. And how can she make him understand the real meaning of the word "gentleman"?

Of course that meaning has been defined by a great mind. I quote a paragraph of Henry Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World."

"You know the meaning of the word 'gentleman.' It means a gentleman—man who does things gently, with love. And that is the whole art and mystery of it."

The gentle man cannot in the nature of things, do an ungentle, ungentlemanly thing. The ungentle soul, the inconsiderate, unsympathetic nature cannot do anything else.

This mother might tell her son that outstanding figures of gentlemen are far from the mollycoddle type. It requires, in fact, a character in which there is no such cringing weakness to be the gentleman—that is, to be considerate and courteous under all circumstances. No man, of course, can be a gentleman without being courteous, and one who has that quality is quite likely to be a gentleman.

Read further what Henry Drummond has to say of courtesy:

"Courtesy is said to be love in little things. And the one secret of politeness is to love. Love cannot behave itself unseemly. You can put the most untutored persons into the highest society, and if they have a reservoir of love in their heart they will not behave themselves unseemly. They simply cannot do it."

"Caroline said of Robert Burns, that there was no truer gentleman in Europe than the ploughman-port. It was because he loved everything—the mouse, and the daisy, and all things, great and small, that God had made him. So, this simple ploughman, he could mingle with any society and enter courts and palaces from his little cottage on the banks of the Ayr."

NEW YORK.—One of the shades of night naturally is black but this color is seldom seen alone at present.

The foremost French designers are mixing two or more of these colors with white. For example one of evening dress is composed of black and two shades of pink, one very mauve and the other slightly deeper in tone and a turquoise blue. The spiral belt is an innovation.

Children's Bedtime Story

The New Home of the Coyotes

The perfect home, it doth appear.

Can never be where there is fear.

—Mrs. Coyote.

NOT even the sharp eyes of Blacky the Crow or those of Sammy Jay had discovered the new home of Old Man Coyote and Mrs. Coyote.

In fact, Sammy and Blacky and all the rest of the little people had taken it for granted that Mrs. Coyote would go to live with Old Man Coyote in his old home in the old pasture. They had taken it for granted, just as old Man Coyote himself had taken it for granted. So no one took the trouble to go to see if this was the fact; and of course they didn't go looking for a new home anywhere.

That new home certainly was very cleverly chosen. Old Man Coyote had to admit it. It was so well hidden in a thicket that only the sharpest eyes would ever discover it. Yet, the sun could pour down on the sandy doorstep, so that a sunbath could be enjoyed even better than at Old Man Coyote's old home. You will remember that Old Man Coyote had ventured to hope that Mrs. Coyote would arrange a back door. She did. She did more than this. She arranged two back doors, and they were so cleverly hidden that when Old Man Coyote tried to find them from outside he actually had to hunt a long time.

"You see, my dear," said Mrs. Coyote, "we have no one to really fear excepting those horrid two-legged creatures called men and the dogs they use. Without those dogs, like Bowser the Hound, they never in the world would be able to get us. But Bowser the Hound, or some other dog, can follow our tracks as you very well know. Now, if when we come home we always trot along that little bare ledge of rock those dogs are not likely to find our home. You know as well as I do that bare rock will not hold our scent in dry weather. By and by, if we have some babies, they will be quite safe here. No one will ever think of looking away up here for our home. But, of course, we must be very careful. It will be well, my dear, for us to be seen more or less around your old home."

"Certainly, my dear, of course," said Old Man Coyote, grinning happily. "I think I shall take my sun baths down there just as I always have. If you would join me there, it would be a wise thing. Just let Sammy Jay or Blacky the Crow see us taking our sun bath there a few times and it will be all over the Green Meadows and through the Green Forest that that is where we are living. My dear, you are a wonderful home builder."

"Do you really like this new home?" asked Mrs. Coyote, a bit shyly.

"I love it," declared Old Man Coyote.

"Do you love it as much as you did your old home?" persisted Mrs. Coyote.

"I shall love it more," declared Old Man Coyote.

RECIPES FROM "My Old Virginia Cook Book"

Cocoanut Candy.

REMOVE the milk from one large coconut. Add to one-half cup of the coconut milk one and one-half pounds of powdered sugar and boil this until it will spin a thread. Then add the coconut (grated) and beat hard for 10 minutes. Then cook for about 10 minutes, stirring frequently to keep from sticking. Remove from fire, beat well and drop by spoonfuls on buttered paper and act by to harden.

Coyote and she once more turned her attention to the entrance to the house. "Do you think I have this quite large enough?" she inquired.

Old Man Coyote nodded. "It is plenty big enough for me," said he, "and if it is big enough for me that is all that is needed, for I am larger than you."

"Are there any changes you would like to make?" Mrs. Coyote asked in a meek-sounding voice.

Old Man Coyote half opened his mouth to speak, then glanced at her sideways and closed his mouth. He simply shook his head. Already Old Man Coyote was beginning to learn. He was beginning to understand that some things are better left unsaid.

Gray and Green.

NEW YORK—Gray and green have usurped the places of colors once popular for the more formal summer costumes. This undoubtedly is because of the delightful effect they convey. Even the sliken nothings which are modern sport clothes, look hot in some instances with their brilliant colorings. The grays are as delicate as possible, ranging from mist to smoke. Willow green is a favorite fully cool effect they convey. Even

Window Sill Onions

IF YOUR family do not eat onions except as flavoring or seasoning you probably have a great waste in this vegetable. Why not plant onions in flower pots and keep them on the kitchen window sill? When you want just a little onion flavoring in the soup, stew, salad, meats, etc., cut off the young shoots.

These are nice when thinly sliced and scattered over salads, pot cheese, etc. Three or four onions thus planted will yield sufficient shoots for this purpose.

Snake Bangles are Realistic.
NEW YORK.—Snake necklets, bracelets and anklets are no novelty but the newest flexible examples are far more lifelike than any hitherto produced. The tiny scales of the bodies not only are lifelike but are added to the flexibility of the bangles, which are their chief charm.

Removes stain and odor

Toilet bowls can be easily and quickly freed from all stain and odor with Clorox the modern labor-saver. The bowl and its outlet pipe are disinfected at the same time, for Clorox is a disinfectant and deodorant as well as a marvelous cleanser. Follow instructions on label for this and many other uses of Clorox.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.
Q. A. J.—The proper treatment of a sty is to apply hot compresses and open the sty when it begins to form or rather. This is done as often as necessary for nothing. To prevent recurrence or the adjoining gland becoming infected, apply the following ointment: Yellow oxide of mercury dissolved in the strength of 10 per cent to the eye lids night and morning.

Q. A. J.—Such a condition of the skin as you describe is due to some impediment or lack of driving force in the circulation of the blood, which may be due to some degeneration of some organ or liver, heart, lungs, kidneys or liver, to determine which one, or ones, these are at fault, a thorough examination by a competent physician is absolutely necessary. This is an immediate danger now and this condition should not prevent marriage.

Q. A. J.—We have no suggestion to make concerning the advisability of using the method you stated about. An extensive experience in the treatment of neuritis is that heat is the one and the effective cure for this trouble. That medicines are of no value. It is practically impossible to get proper treatment and good results in any self-administered or home treatment. Barnes Hospital is especially well equipped for these treatments, and our advice is that you go there for quickest and best results.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

BY MOONLIGHT.

BY daylight all the land is very fair and warm and sweet with sun, a golden glory dances in the air until the day is done. By daylight men are cold or men are kind, the ways they choose are plain; by day it is a simple thing to find the paths of peace or pain. But when beyond earth's utmost Western verge the sun's bright banners fly and like a sea of fiery colors, surge its glories up the sky, the pallid moon creeps past the Eastern rim of earth and works a change, beneath its light the world is vague and dim, the garden paths grow straggled, by moonlight all the splendors of the past come back through time and space; man's soul moves through a universe more vast beneath the moon's pale face.

Raincoats Are Gay.

Reigning raincoat styles in Paris make rubberized crepe de chine the fabric most used in these any-weather garments, which are made in the brightest sports shades, as well as in the conservative blue and brown tones sponsored by many of the most fashionable women. The greatest novelty of the season is a dark brown rubberized crepe de chine coat with a fur collar of lynx.

High Heels.

NEW YORK.—High heels, according to fashion experts, today should not be too low unless one is shod exclusively for the purpose of pedestrianism. With anything but shoes for golf or tennis, but the matter of graceful carriage, they say demands that the heels be at least of moderate height. Violent combinations are losing their popularity as soon as they gain it.

lic Service Commission granting the United Railways an 8-cent cash fare, with two tokens for 15 cents, as a 7.1 per cent return, for six months, upon a tentative valuation of $52,000,000, taken in conjunction with Receiver Wells' report of his conduct of the railways for eight years, throws a flood of light upon the transportation problem which confronts the city.The receiver, except for brief intervals of an 8-cent fare, has subsisted, even flourished, upon a 7-cent carfare throughout the 8-year period. Upon a 7-cent fare, he has been able to pay approximately $2,600,000 annually in interest upon the company's $55,000,000 of bonded indebtedness. He has been able to maintain the property so that it is now in better physical condition than when he took it over. He has reinvested more than $6,000,000 from carfares in new property, chiefly cars and reconstructed track, and has contributed $2,000,000 cash toward the retirement of some of the company's bonds.What the 8-Cent Fare Will Do.
Seemingly the St. Louis Public Service Co., which will buy in the property on Aug. 1 and shortly thereafter take it over, could do as well upon a 7-cent carfare.Under an 8-cent fare, it can do infinitely better. It will be able to pay the interest on its bonded indebtedness and the 7 per cent dividends on its preferred stock, a total of $2,202,915 annually. It will be able to pay 7.1 per cent dividends, which the commission has capital in a public utility, upon the 342-445 shares of common stock issued at $12.50 a share.It will have remaining more than $1,000,000 a year which it can use for the retirement of bonds or other debt and $750,000 additional for betterments of service—a sum far in excess of what can be usefully expended in improving its surface transportation system.Receiver Wells' Record.
The last annual report of receiver Wells shows that, beginning in 1918, he has taken from the fare box approximately $5-400,000 more than the sum required to meet all operating expenses and interest obligations.
